Root and Burton Also Placed in Nomination—Others to Follow First Peace Conference a Failure—Joint Committee May Meet Again

BORAH ADDRESSES MOOSE CONVENTION, AND GETS OVATION

"I Came for Inspiration," His Explanation of Visit—Progressives Pass on Platform Planks and Receive Conferees' Report—Roosevelt in Constant Touch With Proceedings.

AUDITORIUM, CHICAGO, June 9.—The Progressive convention recessed at 1:08 today until 3 p. m., after receiving an unexpected visit from Senator William E. Borah. He was given a tremendous ovation when escorted to the platform. Borah arrived at 12:40.

Chairman Robins introduced Senator Borah. The convention roared itself hoarse when the Senator said he had not come officially.

"I will say to you frankly," were his words, "I come over here to get an inspiration."

At once a wave swept over the hall, started, no one knew how.

"We want Teddy," resounded through the hall and galleries with more vim than at any time since the convention assembled.

Senator Borah waited quietly and finally Chairman Robins urged quiet.

"It is well known—the deep-seated affection I have for your leader"—Borah said, and was hailed by another salvo of enthusiasm, the whole convention in a mighty chant, shouting, "We want Teddy" for a full minute, while Borah smilingly waited. The shouting lulled and then was renewed. Leaders on the stage joining.

"There's no doubt you want Teddy," said Senator Borah.

"We want Borah, too," answered the delegates, and the Senator proceeded, and swinging into the stride of his speech which he promised would be brief.

He put a question on the whispered circulation of his name as a possible "Moose" by reminding the Progressive convention that he was present as a member of a committee "from another convention."

Millions Want Teddy.

"There isn't a doubt but that you want Teddy, and that millions of citizens throughout the country also want Teddy," he continued. "You are fortunate in having a leader," he continued, "who has done more than any other man to make the issues of this campaign."

"He is a maker of questions involved in this international crisis." The convention responded enthusiastically to the praise of the Colonel. "But let us bear in mind," he urged, "that these two conventions do here, will perhaps decide the welfare of the United States for the next quarter of a century. We can only insure ourselves by working together in close co-operation. I do not discourage your loyalty and enthusiasm to your leader, but I must say it is essential that before we leave this great city it should be definitely determined that we will march and fight together in this great conflict."

"But if the two conventions agree upon your great leader you will find no more enthusiastic supporter than myself."

Borah concluded, amid applause and shouts for Roosevelt and Borah.

As Borah shook hands with leaders on the stage and left, the floor hummed with excited discussion of the dramatic development.

After finishing consideration of their platform, section by section, but without voting for its final adoption, the Progressives recessed for lunch.

Col. Roosevelt's secretary, John W. McGrath, and his former secretary in the White House, William Loebl, Jr., were on the convention platform about one minute at 11:55 a. m. They whispered to a few leaders and retired. Mr. Loebl said: "We hope to keep the convention from doing anything foolish." He declined to interpret the word "foolish."

McGrath and Loebl, after retiring from the rostrum, are understood to have taken positions in an ante-room equipped with a long-distance telephone, connected with Oyster Bay. Frequently they came back to the platform and the party leaders buzzed with activity.

Following the arrival of McGrath and Loebl a report was circulated, to which party managers gave ready ear, that Col. Roosevelt intended to withdraw his name. There seemed to be no competent authority for the prediction and radicals said they "would name Teddy anyway."

A report of the peace conference appointed by the Progressive national convention was read to the delegates by Chairman Perkins, at the same hour the Republican conference committee was making its report at the Coliseum. The reports were not identical, but they agreed that Col. Roosevelt's name was the only one the Progressives presented to the Republicans and that the latter offered no name for consideration. Both reports recommended time for further conferences "this afternoon or evening."

"For an hour the Progressive delegates had been listening to the reading of the platform. The radicals had been straining at the leash. They had been restrained only by the statement of Chairman Robins that the report of the conference committee was coming very soon. Most of them did not understand the parliamentary situation which made the report of the Resolutions Committee unfinished business. They chafed at the restraint."

After listening to the reading of the two reports and Mr. Perkins' appeal to the convention to let the conferees go back to work, the delegates applauded vociferously the chairman's praise of the eloquence of his colleague's arguments in favor of the Progressives' universal candidate. Gov. Hiram Johnson, former Attorney-General Charles J. Bonaparte of Maryland, John M. Parker of Louisiana and H. S. Wilkinson of New York were introduced in brief.

Johnson is pessimistic.

Gov. Johnson sounded a note of pessimism in the call for peace by telling the Progressives not to place too much confidence in the expressions concerning Col. Roosevelt in the Republican report. His remarks voiced the fears of the radicals that there was little prospect for an agreement between the two conventions, but his name on the report guaranteed that the convention would permit its committee to proceed with conferences until a final report could be made.

A motion was made that the suffrage plank be first taken up, but the chairman ruled that the planks should be taken up in order. He moved the approval of each plank as he finished its reading, but said final adoption as a whole would be deferred until after the entire document had been read, all amendments made and the peace conference report acted upon.

The officers of the convention who were attempting to proceed in a deliberate manner realized that their work was cut out for them and that Chairman Robins' task was far from easy.

All of the first paragraphs of the platform were approved by viva voce vote; later paragraphs were approved by unanimous consent, shortening the routine process.

The plank on "Americanism" was approved without a dissenting voice and without applause.

Murder on High Seas.

Mr. Lewis, holding an Indiana proxy offered an amendment to the Mexican plank to include criticism of the "murder of Americans on the high seas."

The amendment read: "Failure to deal firmly and promptly with the menace of Mexican disorders and threatened violations of the rights of our citizens on the high seas has resulted in the wanton murder of our citizens and in the tragic weakening of our national self-respect."

The convention by overwhelming vote approved the amendment.

The paragraph relating to peace efforts, Judge W. L. Ransom of New York, a member of the Resolutions Committee, proposed to add to the declaration for equal rights "to all men in all lands" the following:

"We pledge ourselves not to conclude a treaty with Russia or with any other country that will not expressly procure such absolute rights."

A new amendment by Judge Ransom, reading as above, was substituted.

"We should not conclude a treaty with any country that will not expressly

TEST OF HUGHES STRENGTH TO COME ON RECESS MOTION

Old Guard Planning to Force an Adjournment After the Second Ballot.

EARLY LEAD CONCEDED

Expected That Justice Will Have More Than 350 Votes on First Voting.

By GEORGE W. EADS.
By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

COLISEUM, CHICAGO, June 9.—The first real test of strength between the Hughes and anti-Hughes forces is expected after the first few ballots are taken in the Republican National Convention. It is conceded by the opposition that the Justice will lead on the first two ballots, probably getting 375 votes on the second.

The anti-Hughes men will then move to adjourn. This will be opposed by the supporters of the Justice and the test will be on. Hughes men believe their candidate will be nominated if the convention is kept in session after a few more ballots.

The anti-Hughes men say the motion to adjourn will prevail by a majority of 250.

The object of asking for adjournment is to tighten up the lines of the allied forces. Two ballots will be sufficient to show the relative strength of the candidates and the Old Guard leaders believe that the Hughes forces will attain practically their maximum strength on the second ballot.

Plans Might Be Upset.

Their only fear is that they may not be able to hold all the delegates whose support to their plan has been pledged by accredited State leaders. The defection of 50 delegates would upset their plans. The margin by which they believe they control the situation is too small to be entirely satisfactory. There are disquieting reports also that some of the delegates they have been relying upon are flirting with the Hughes managers.

Root was eliminated from consideration because it was known that Roosevelt could not campaign for him without stultifying himself, in view of Roosevelt's charges that Root was one of the principal conspirators who stole the nomination for him in 1912. Burton was not regarded as strong enough on the preparedness issue to meet the demands of Roosevelt.

If the anti-Hughes men succeed in forcing an adjournment, they will hold further conferences to determine their plan of campaign.

Big Guard Conference.

While the conference committee were in session last night trying to effect a peace agreement between the Republican and Progressive parties, the leaders of the Republican old guard were also in conference for the specific purpose of defeating Hughes.

The old guard reexamined the situation and reasserted that it had 587 delegates—81 more than a majority—who could be relied upon to vote against Hughes.

The only chance that the old guard has made in its program is the elimination of Root and Burton from further consideration and the substitution of John W. Weeks of Massachusetts.

Weeks and Fairbanks are the two candidates still under consideration by the allied forces represented in the old guard movement.

The principal leaders of the anti-Hughes forces with representatives from all states were in conference until 2 a. m. They said they were thoroughly satisfied that they retain control of the situation, despite the tendency of the delegates to line up for Hughes. They are willing to nominate any candidate who can be assured of the support of Roosevelt.

They know definitely and positively that Roosevelt will not support Hughes and that he will run on a third ticket if Hughes is nominated.

They assure to American citizens such absolute rights.

Ransom explained that the Resolutions Committee believed the language should be general and not single out one nation by name.

The substitute was approved with a roar of applause.

Suffrage Plank Amended.

The heavy plank was approved as originally drawn despite attempt to amend by having a plank for a navy "sufficient for our naval defense." Instead of a "Navy restored to at least second ranks in battle efficiency," as the resolutions committee recommended.

The plank on women's suffrage was amended so as to declare for the full rights of suffrage by both federal and state action. The committee had used the word "either."

CONVENTION VISITORS FORCED TO BUY 18,000 UMBRELLAS

CHICAGO, June 9.—About the only persons in Chicago who seem to be satisfied with the weather offering this week are the merchandise managers of downtown stores, which have profited by the heavy rains that have prevailed for three days and which stopped last night for the first time since the convening of the Republican and Progressive conventions. According to estimates made by the stores which have profited most, the long rain resulted in the sale to convention visitors of 18,000 umbrellas, 27,000 pairs of rubbers and 11,500 rain coats.

Republican and Progressive Planks on Suffrage and Military Training Compared

WHAT the Republican and Progressive platforms have to say on the questions of Woman's Suffrage and Military Training.

REPUBLICAN.

Defense—In order to maintain our peace and make certain the security of our people within our own borders the country must have not only adequate but thorough and competent national defense, ready for any emergency. We must have a sufficient and effective regular army and a provision for ample reserves, already drilled and disciplined, who can be called at once to the colors when the hour of danger comes.

Suffrage—The Republican party, reaffirming its faith in government of the people, by the people, for the people, as a measure of justice to one-half of the adult people of this country, favors the extension of the suffrage to women, but recognizes the right of each state to settle this question for itself.

PROGRESSIVE.

Defense—Adequate provision for the common defense has become the task of foremost national concern. Preparation in army requires:

A navy restored to at least second rank in battle efficiency.

A regular army of 250,000 men, fully armed and trained, as a first line of land defense.

As the nation has always recognized and exercised the right to enforce compulsory military service in time of war, so should there be universal military training for that service in time of peace.

Suffrage—We believe that the women of the country who share with men the burden of the Government in times of peace and make equal sacrifice in time of war, should be given the full political right of suffrage.

JOHN R. McLEAN, OWNER OF TWO NEWSPAPERS, DIES

He Was Proprietor of the Cincinnati Enquirer and the Washington Post—Ill for Some Time.

WASHINGTON, June 9.—John R. McLean, owner of the Washington Post and the Cincinnati Enquirer, died at his home here at 2:50 o'clock this afternoon after a long illness.

McLean was born here and was 65 years old. He was a Democrat and a member of the national committee from Ohio for a number of years. He never held public office, although he was a candidate for United States Senator in 1885 and for Governor in 1890.

His first newspaper was the Cincinnati Enquirer, which he founded in 1855. He later moved to Washington and founded the Washington Post.

DELEGATIONS PARADE HALL; GOV. WHITMAN PRESENTS THE JUSTICE

Mention of Taft Brings Six Minutes of Cheering—Nicholas Murray Butler Presents Root's Name and Gov. Willis Places Burton in Nomination

By George W. Eads.
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

COLISEUM, CHICAGO, June 9.—Nomination of candidates began today in the Republican National Convention. The first name presented was that of Justice Hughes. Gov. Whitman made the nominating speech and when he concluded there was a 20-minute demonstration for the Justice.

Afterward Nicholas Murray Butler placed Elihu Root in nomination and there was a 15-minute demonstration for the former Senator.

Gov. Willis placed the name of Theodore Burton in nomination.

The convention was called to order at 11:13 a. m. and shortly afterward Senator Smoot presented the report of the committee which conferred with a committee from the Progressive convention at the Chicago Club for two hours at midnight in the interest of harmony.

Smoot reported that the Progressives had offered the name of Col. Roosevelt as the man best suited to bring success to a reunited Republican party this fall. Chairman Harding announced that the conference committee would be continued.

It was announced in the hall that Col. Roosevelt would be put in nomination in the Republican convention by Senator Fall of Massachusetts.

Women First to Arrive.

A party of women were the first visitors to arrive when the Coliseum doors were opened at 9:30 o'clock today. The early contingent of ticket holders was the smallest since the convention opened.

Although the rain had ceased, the east hall was still heavy with dampness. A sound-magnifying contrivance was installed for the benefit of Alfred I. Du Pont of the Delaware delegation. Mr. Du Pont explained to Sergeant-at-Arms Stone that it was rather monotonous to sit in his chair hour after hour with only the motion of lips to entertain him.

The Colorado delegation of twelve caucused this morning and lined up Roosevelt six, Root five and Fairbanks one, for the first ballot. It was understood that after the third or fourth ballot, if reached, the delegation would go solidly for Fairbanks.

The big hall was more crowded at 11 o'clock than it has been at that hour on any day. The prospect of nominations brought in the crowd. It was understood that after the third or fourth ballot, if reached, the delegation would go solidly for Fairbanks.

Finally at 11:17 Chairman Harding got the meeting in order and the convention stood while Bishop William F. McDowell offered prayer. The Bishop prayed as follows:

Before going on a National Committee coast from Kentucky was considered for a moment by unanimous consent.

The Burton men kept it up for 23 minutes, then the chairman gavelled for order.

Root Cheered 15 Minutes.

When Dr. Butler finished at 12:55 another demonstration began, which lasted about fifteen minutes. The cheering in the New York delegation was led by former Secretary Stimson. Many of the delegates who had cheered for Justice Hughes a few minutes previously cheered just as loudly for Mr. Root.

Arkansas yielded to Ohio and Gov. Willis placed in nomination Theodore C. Burton. Willis brought out the little G. O. P. top elephant on wheels and rolled it to the front of the platform.

In the middle of Gov. Willis' speech the sun came out for the first time in four days and flooded the Coliseum. We were speaking of a Republican party with its face turned to the future.

"And as an omen of that," said he, "the sun is shining, thank God!"

LONDON, June 9.—Gen. Joffre, the French Commander in Chief, is in London. He attended an important conference at the Foreign Office today with Paul Cambon, the French Ambassador, Sir Edward Grey, the British Secretary and the members of the War Council.

WICKERSHAM CALLS ON HUGHES

Former Attorney-General Says He Avoided Political Talk.

WASHINGTON, June 9.—Justice Hughes remained in his study nearly of yesterday, continuing work on opinions to be handed down Monday. He talked for a half hour late in the afternoon with George W. Wickersham, New York, former Attorney-General, who said he felt the Hughes men were nearly for a social call and "carefully avoided mentioning politics."

Wickersham came to Washington, explained, to see his dentist. He had luncheon with the French Ambassador, who insisted that he take the subway car to make some calls. In the car he talked first with Mrs. Hughes and then with the Justice, who was in the downtown with his breakfast.

Wickersham said he had been in touch with the Hughes men since they came to St. Louis.

LODGE LISTENED TO BARTHOLD IN CONSTRUCTING REPUBLICAN PLANK ON FOREIGN RELATIONS

BARTHOLDT WROTE TWO PLANKS FOR G. O. P. PLATFORM

World Court and Neutrality Declarations Drawn by Former Congressman.

AGAINST GERMAN ACTIVITY

Says Foreign-Born Citizens Make Matters Worse by Getting Into Political Fight.

By GEORGE W. EADS.
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, June 9.—Former Congressman Richard Bartholdt of St. Louis, who has been here since the opening of the Republican national convention, directed his efforts exclusively to the work of getting two planks into the party platform, according to a statement he made to the Post-Dispatch correspondent today.

One of the planks which Dr. Bartholdt wrote follows: "We believe in the pacific settlement of international disputes and favor the establishment of a world court for that purpose."

The other plank declares for an honest neutrality between the United States and all the belligerent nations. Dr. Bartholdt said that he was interested in no other political problem in connection with the convention, and that he had written a letter to the German-American Alliance, from Washington, urging that no fight be made at Chicago against any individual.

Bartholdt was highly elated over his success in getting his two planks into the national platform. He said that he stood at the door of the committee room at the Congress Hotel and discussed the subject with the members as they went into the room for conference, but did not get any encouragement until he talked with Senator Lodge, chairman of the committee.

Senator Lodge, he said, invited him to appear before the Platform Committee and make a statement of his views. After he had enlightened the committee, he said, he was asked to write the two planks. He did so and submitted them to the committee, and they were adopted without change.

"Of course, I am against Roosevelt," Bartholdt said, "but I think the German-Americans are making a mistake by getting into these political fights. They only make matters worse. All that we should be interested in is an impartial neutrality. Roosevelt in St. Louis made an attack upon the German-Americans which I regarded as unwarranted. It was the German element in Missouri that succeeded in holding Missouri in the Union during the Civil War, while the native Americans were seceding."

Nagel Boom Not Pushed.

Bartholdt said he had not undertaken to influence any delegates in the matter of selecting a presidential candidate. An effort was made by Otto Stifel and Jephth D. Howe of St. Louis to start a boom for Charles Nagel of St. Louis for Vice President. Howe saw National Chairman Hill and some other national leaders in the interest of Nagel, and distributed some printed copies of Nagel's recent speech before the Lamm Club in St. Louis. The Nagel boom has made no headway and Howe and Stifel have not pushed it in the last three days.

AUTO PARKING ON BUT ONE SIDE OF ONE-WAY STREETS

Owners Who Have Been Using Both Sides Warned Against Practice by Police Stickers.

Many automobilists who have been accustomed to parking their cars on the left-hand side of the four "one-way" streets in the downtown district, as well as on the right-hand side, since the one-way traffic rule was established, are being warned by policemen that this is in violation of the parking ordinance. The warning takes the form of a sticker pasted on the automobile.

Under the ordinance machines may be parked between Washington avenue and Market street only on the west side of Sixth and Eighth streets, where the one-way traffic is southbound and only on the east side of Seventh and Ninth streets where the traffic is northbound. This regulation, however, has not been enforced and automobiles were parked daily on both sides of the streets, facing in the direction of traffic, until yesterday afternoon, when the police sticker squad got busy.

BREWERY REVISED ON DRY BY CUTTING OFF ELECTRICITY

As Result Weston (Mo.) Paper Can't Go to Press and Stores Also Suffer.

WESTON, Mo., June 9.—Men most active in opposing saloons in Clinton County in the campaign that ended Saturday, when a majority of 116 allowed the county to remain wet, are being denied the electric light service of the Royal Brewing Co., which owns the only plant in Weston.

Just before the Weston Herald, the county newspaper, went to press yesterday afternoon, the brewery cut off the electric light service. The only explanation given was that the brewery had no more money to pay for the electricity.

The brewery employees also cut off the electric light service to the stores in the town, and the stores are also suffering.

T. R.'S TELEGRAM REGARDED AS VETO OF JUSTICE HUGHES

Colonel's Friends Say Message Was to Stamp Jurist as German-American Candidate.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., June 9.—Col. Roosevelt's message to former Senator William P. Jackson of Maryland, Republican national committeeman, in reply to an invitation to come to Chicago, was taken by observers here as an ultimatum to the Republican leaders that they must purge themselves of subservience to the German-American influence. The construction placed on the message here also was that Col. Roosevelt warns the Republicans that to nominate Justice Hughes is to nominate a German-American candidate, and that such a course will leave the Progressive no choice but to put a third ticket in the field, with the Colonel at the head of it.

The Colonel's friends here say there is no possibility of misunderstanding the Colonel's attitude, and it is that "Hughes will not do."

Col. Roosevelt reiterated this forenoon that he had no "present intention" of going to Chicago. The Colonel was up last night until 2 o'clock talking to Progressive headquarters on the telephone. Two hours after he retired he was awakened and answered another Chicago call.

Secretary Sleeps at Wire. The Colonel is not out of touch with Chicago for a moment. When he is not talking over the private long-distance wire with Perkins, Loeb, Cortisou or his secretary, McGrath, the assistant secretary, Hayes, is holding the wire. Hayes has moved into the room where the telephone is, and leaves it only for a few moments at a time. He has his cat there, and manages to snatch a little sleep between bulletins from Chicago.

The Colonel continues in exuberant spirits. He laughs uproariously at the incidents of the day. Not even his closest friends have ever seen him in a more jovial mood.

The correspondents were received by Col. Roosevelt as usual last night at Segamore Hill. He entertained them for some time with the story of how he shot his first bear, and later invited them to visit his private den, where he displayed some of his cherished trophies of the hunt.

Political Foes of Col. Roosevelt Named on G. O. P. Peace Committee

CHICAGO, June 9.—The Republican Peace Conference Committee was composed of Senator Reed Smoot of Utah, chairman; former Senator Murray Crane of Massachusetts; Senator William E. Borah of Idaho; Nicholas Murray Butler of New York and A. R. Johnson of Ohio. The Progressive committee had George W. Perkins of New York for chairman, and the other members were Gov. Hiram Johnson of California, Horace B. Wilkinson of New York, Charles J. Bonaparte of Maryland and John M. Parker of New Orleans.

Every member of the Republican "peace" committee took part in the management of the Republican convention in 1912, which brought the Progressive party into being. Crane, Smoot and Butler were advocates of methods to prevent the nomination of Col. Roosevelt. A. R. Johnson, then in Congress, supported them. Borah was for Roosevelt, but refused to leave the Republican party. When Vice President Sherman died, Butler was selected as the running mate of President Taft.

Gov. Johnson was candidate for Vice President with Roosevelt on the 1912 Progressive ticket. Hundreds of times Gov. Johnson has denounced with great vigor the action in 1912 of the men who last night sat across from him at the council tables.

Bonaparte of Maryland constantly has been for Roosevelt and Roosevelt policies. Parker organized the Progressive party in Louisiana. Perkins and Wilkinson were with Col. Roosevelt in 1912.

MOOSE PLATFORM MORE CAUTIOUS THAN G. O. P.'S, SAYS WM. ALLEN WHITE

Was Written in the Hope That the Republicans Would Take Roosevelt—Only Argument Was Over Prohibition.

By William Allen White.

Kansas Progressive Leader, Editor and Author.

(Copyright, 1916, by George Matthew Adams.)
CHICAGO, June 9.—The Progressives yesterday afternoon seemed to be at least one lap ahead of the Republicans in the race to nominate a President. The Progressives worked all night on their platform, and at noon had prepared a safe and sane program. It was written with the hope that the Republicans would take Roosevelt, and upon the whole it is a more cautious platform than the Republicans made. It pleased Senator Lodge.

The only serious difference in the Progressive Platform Committee occurred over the prohibition question, which was rejected in the committee by a vote of 11 to 9. The committee from the prohibition states voted for the prohibition plank and the others generally against it. The women of the Congressional Union won their "point" in the suffrage amendment after it had been reconsidered by the committee.

The committee felt that preparedness, Americanism and industrial reorganization were the chief issues and practically abandoned all other issues. The tariff came in for but a few lines, but in the reaffirmation of the platform of 1912 gave what satisfaction the crusaders in the party desired. The platform was met with enthusiasm, but the Progressives are an emotional crowd and would have cheered the multiplication table if it had been presented by accredited leadership.

The flight of the day came early when Delegate James A. Garfield proposed a conference committee. Murdock of Kansas opposed the conference committee with vigor. Allen of Kansas tried to limit the time during which the Republicans should act, but the convention thought that would be discourteous and gave the committee all the time it needed.

Early in the day it was rumored about the hotels that Mr. Perkins and his

MORSE FAILS TO HOLD HIS WEEKS DELEGATES IN LINE

Massachusetts Senator Likely Will Receive Only Complimentary Missouri Votes.

MIGHT GO FOR HUGHES

Standpat Boss Using All of His Efforts to Prevent Swing to Justice.

By CURTIS A. BETTS.
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, June 9.—The weeks' strength in the Missouri Republican delegation collapsed last night in a secret caucus in Missouri headquarters in the Morrison Hotel. Weeks will receive a few complimentary votes from the Missouri delegation on the first ballot.

The delegation found itself as wide as it has been at any time, but there were indications that it might agree to go almost as a unit for some candidate, probably Hughes.

E. L. Morse, Republican boss in Northwestern Missouri, who has been devoting months in an effort to capture the Missouri delegates for Weeks, did not abandon the fight in the caucus, though it became evident that he could get little more than a slight showing for Weeks.

Definite Decision Fought. He and his supporters fought any definite decision by the delegation as to what it should do. They urged that no candidate should be decided upon until the conference committee made its report, taking the position that the committee probably would report in favor of Eugene H. Root and that then the delegation could go to him.

The Hughes men on the delegation, however, said after the caucus that they had no hope of the conference committee reaching an agreement and that in the absence of such an agreement, the Missouri delegation would go strongly for Hughes after the first ballot.

Why Hughes Is Fought. The Morse interest in fighting Hughes, whose nomination would leave Morse and his standpat reactionary element without any influence in national affairs in Missouri in the event of Hughes' election. They will exert all the influence they have to prevent the nomination of Hughes and to throw the delegation to a dark horse candidate, for which they would hope to get some credit in case of a Republican victory next fall.

The delegation selected a steering committee to keep in touch with the situation during the convention and to report to the delegation from time to time. The selections for this committee were W. H. Harkins, chairman of the committee; J. A. McNulty of Nebraska; Thomas B. Marks of Kansas City; Otto F. Stifel, chairman of the delegation, is ex-officio a member of this committee.

The executive session followed an open meeting of the delegation at which several delegates and other Missouri Republicans made "harmony" speeches.

Stifel early in the meeting suggested that the delegates discuss candidates and that each delegate announce his preference. Morse immediately objected. He said there was no occasion for a public poll of the delegation and that he did not think such a poll advisable.

Stifel dropped suggestion. After a whispered conversation with Morse, Stifel withdrew his suggestion and later objected vigorously when Congressman Wecker and Jephth D. Howe, in their talks to the delegates, said that the sentiment in Missouri was for Hughes. Stifel told them they must not discuss candidates. Former Judge Matt G. Reynolds, who was in charge of the Roosevelt reception in St. Louis two weeks ago, announced to the delegation that he "was not and never has been a Bull Moose" Republican and would support the Republican nominee, whoever it might be.

Friends were discouraged; that they were getting to "take" Hughes.

The Committee on Permanent Organization got into a wrangle. It was reported that the Perkins people were for Walter Brown, who was said by rumor to favor the Hughes program. The program was to be achieved through such delays as the permanent organization of the convention allows to obstruct the day's work. The rumor further declared that the delays would be made by the Perkins people before the Progressives could nominate Roosevelt. These rumors probably were untrue, but they had their effect, which was to make the convention suspicious, but its determination to nominate Roosevelt whether or no became deeper seated.

Soul of the Convention. That was the soul of the convention when it adjourned for supper. The convention submitted to the conference measure only as a measure to make Roosevelt's title to the nomination clear by showing to the country a desire to discuss the issues and the candidate in a nonpartisan manner. The day-long conference would lead to much. The conference could only last while the Bull Moose called the Republicans "burglars" and "thieves," and the Republicans call the Progressives "boobies" and "baiters." When the committee on Permanent Organization reported Raymond Robins as permanent chairman it was evident that the person of the morning's rumor had gone.

HUGHES "TRUE AMERICAN" WHITMAN SAYS IN NAMING HIM FOR THE PRESIDENCY

Calls Record of Justice Spotless and Declares He Is an Advocate of Preparedness and the Man to Restore the Nation's Standing.

COLISEUM, CHICAGO, June 9.—Gov. Whitman of New York, in placing Justice Charles E. Hughes in nomination before the Republican national convention today, said:

"We are assembled here to name the standard bearer of the great Republican party. We are here to name a man who will substitute trained statesmanship for apprentice policies. We are here to select the next President of these United States."

"The national horizon is dark and troubled. From afar the lurid flashes of a world war remind us of our own citizens killed and our own flag insulted. To the south we see anarchy encroaching on our borders. At Washington the President 'watches and waits.' 'Yet we must not think the task before us an easy one. The country is still at peace and the maintenance of peace will be plausibly claimed by the Democratic party."

Prosperity Attributed to War. "A form of prosperity is in the land and few perhaps recognize its temporary nature or pause to analyze its causes. The great war in Europe created unusual and temporary markets which stayed for the time the disaster otherwise sure to result from a Democratic tariff."

"The war came when our factories were beginning to close, when business was preparing for a siege of hard times and turned our workmen from the bread lines, as surely as did the election of William McKinley and a Republican Congress, in 1896."

"If the devout prayers of all mankind be answered, the frightful holocaust of war will end as quickly as it began, and the products of European labor will pour in upon us, undeterred by a tariff barrier."

"We must choose a man so great that he may bring home to the people a realization of the artificial character of our temporary prosperity. We must choose a man so great that he may be able to lead us safely through the perils that will follow peace. We must choose a man so great that he may meet as a true American, the supreme national issues of the hour and the future."

"Party Rich in Americanism." "Our party is rich in men imbued with the true spirit of Americanism. No one of them can claim a perpendance of the American spirit in his heart or in his nature. All have been brought up in the school of the great Republican party, whose record is the best guarantee of absolute, unswerving and devoted loyalty to the liberty, the integrity and the national honor of this union of states. Our party has ever believed that for the maintenance of these principles, the nation should be ready, prepared and, should necessity call, proud to fight."

"We bring to you today the name of a man trained in battle for the truth, the administration of great public trusts, sterling in his Republicanism, free from the animosities engendered by factional strife, whose private life above suspicion, whose public life without a flaw, a great lawyer, an effective campaigner, an able executive, a mature statesman, a learned jurist. He, above all others, combines the essential qualifications of a true leader."

He would report these facts to this convention, respectfully submitted.

LEADERS HOLD MOOSE IN CHECK IN TWO SESSIONS

Perkins and Davis Managed to Prevent Nomination at Thursday's Meetings.

LITTLE WORK DONE

Night Session of Convention Perfunctory—Platform Made Unfinished Business.

AUDITORIUM HALL, Chicago, June 9.—The Progressive national convention men in two tumultuous sessions yesterday and adjourned last night until 11 a. m. today.

The principal business of the day was the approval of a plan to confer on peace plans with the Republican convention. Throughout the day the leaders kept control over the delegations more by persuasion and by constant reiteration of Chairman Robins' promise that the majority would decide any questions that arose than by any actual hold they had upon the delegations. The same determination to nominate Theodore Roosevelt was evident from the time the first delegation dropped in shortly after 1 o'clock until the last went out shortly before 5 o'clock tonight.

Leaders made no effort to conceal their belief that a failure of the Conference Committee to agree or to find some possible basis for an agreement could result in but one thing—the immediate nomination of Col. Roosevelt. In the words of Chairman Robins, "today probably will be a big day in the convention."

Awaiting Conference Result. One by one the delegates to place no obstacle in the way of the nomination of Col. Roosevelt were the delegates content to adjourn and await results from the conferees.

The convention spent about four hours in session, ending with a perfunctory night gathering, which resulted mostly in singing and cheering. During the day the temporary organization was made permanent, and the platform of the Resolutions Committee was re-considered, read and made the unfinished business.

The letter written by Secretary O. K. Davis of the Progressive convention to Chairman Warren G. Harding of the Republican convention submitting the peace conference resolution was as follows: "By direction of the Progressive national convention I transmit for the consideration of the Republican national convention copy of a resolution duly adopted by the Progressive national convention at its afternoon session, June 8, 1916."

The resolution reads: "In the spirit of the statement approved at the meeting of its National Committee held on Jan. 11 last past, the national convention of the Progressive party invites and requests the national convention of the Republican party to appoint a committee of conference to meet and confer with a similar committee from this body."

Chairman Harding replied: "Upon receipt of your communication of today conveying the resolution passed by the Progressive national convention, I read the same to the national convention in session assembled this afternoon and beg to reply that the convention directed me to appoint a committee of five to confer with the committee of five appointed by the Progressive national convention."

"That committee consists of Senator Reed Smoot of Utah, ex-Senator W. Murray Crane of Massachusetts, Senator William E. Borah of Idaho, Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler of New York and ex-Congressman A. R. Johnson of Ohio, who will be pleased to meet with the members of your committee."

Wants New City Hall. W. P. Boynton, Alton corporation counsel, in his address on "City Government," before the Alton Board of Trade luncheon yesterday noon, advocated the building of a new city hall. He suggested that representatives from various organizations confer and select sites.

Further conference might be desirable this afternoon or evening, the joint committee adjourned.

HEAR SPEECHES, CHEER SUFFRAGE, START BRIEF DEMONSTRATION FOR T. R.

First Session of Yesterday Given Over to Addresses, Followed by Business Meeting, Which Includes Selection of Peace Committee.

CHICAGO, June 9.—The Republican convention yesterday accepted the invitation of the Progressives to a conference for harmony. A proposal to that end, adopted first in the Progressive convention, was received in the Republican convention and adopted with a few scattered "noes" and virtually no demonstration.

Senator Reed Smoot of Utah, Senator William E. Borah of Idaho, former Senator W. Murray Crane of Massachusetts, Nicholas Murray Butler of the New York delegation and former Representative A. R. Johnson of Iron, O., were appointed as the Republican conference. The complexion of the committee was generally regarded as one which would not accept Col. Roosevelt for the presidential nomination, but, on the other hand, would not insist upon an agreement on Justice Hughes.

Speeches at Morning Session. When the convention reconvened yesterday morning the temporary organization was made permanent. Chairman Harding received an ovation and the committee reports were adopted. While waiting for the report of the resolutions committee, Chairman Harding summoned Chauncey M. Depew, "Uncle Joe" Cannon and Senator Borah of Idaho to come to the platform in turn, and they were called on for speeches. After Borah finished the convention took a recess to 2 p. m. to await the report of the resolutions committee.

"It seems to me there is a relation between the campaign of 1854 and the campaign upon which we are now entering," said Depew. "There was one great issue in that campaign and it was an ethical issue and an issue of idealism and an issue of Americanism."

"We are entering upon this period either for the assertion of Americanism which will keep us out of the conflict or mollycoddle policy which will put us into it."

"My friends, it was well known that the Lusitania was to be sunk. The President of the United States could have said one word at that time and there would have been no tragedy of the Lusitania."

"With the potential power of the United States all that has ever been needed has been an authoritative utterance simply and purely to get what we wanted and to prevent what we did not want. America stands for that and will back it up."

be with us—the others we do not want. "We are prepared to pledge to the full, protection to American citizens. We are not only in favor of doing so because it is the only thing for a self-respecting party to do, but it is the surest guarantee of peace."

"If we consent to the murder of our citizens upon the other side of the border, it is only a question of time until they will be murdered in their own homes and under their own flag. A nation whose policy incites contempt will soon earn a more substantial form of punishment."

Cannon Sanguine of Result. "Chauncey," said Cannon, turning to Depew, "I am coming to your one hundredth anniversary." The crowd laughed.

"We fell out from the personal standpoint largely four years ago," said Cannon, "but there is not going to be any further falling out, because this convention will nominate a worthy ticket and it will be elected."

Cannon closed by predicting that the gates of Hell would not prevail against the Republican platform if it were made broad enough to cover all Americans.

The principal developments in the Republican convention after it convened at 4 p. m. were the adoption of the platform, as reported by the Resolutions Committee headed by Senator Lodge, a half-minute demonstration for Col. Roosevelt when his name was mentioned for the first time in the convention; the perfection of the permanent organization and adjournment until today.

Senator Lodge mentioned Col. Roosevelt's name in reading the Philippine plank which declares for the policy inaugurated by McKinley and continued by Roosevelt. The demonstration that followed was principally in the galleries, although it was joined in by some delegates on the floor. Senator Lodge, well identified as a personal friend of the Colonel, smiled and waited until it subsided.

The outstanding incident of the day's session came with Senator Lodge's announcement of the woman suffrage plank.

String to Suffrage Plank. "The Republican party, reaffirming its faith in government of the people, by the people and for the people, as a measure of justice to one-half of the adult people of this country favors the extension of suffrage to women," read the Senator, and there he paused, while the suffragists began their demonstration. "But," continued Senator Lodge when the noise subsided, "it recognizes the right of each state to settle this question for itself."

There were roars of laughter at this qualifying phrase to what the suffragists had celebrated as a clear-cut victory and the convention hall rang with the demonstration of those who approved the qualification.

The temper of the convention managers to hear the minority was well illustrated by their conduct toward Edwin J. Gross of Milwaukee, who, as a member of the Resolutions Committee, presented his own minority report containing practically all the much-discussed proposals characterized as ultra radical, ranging from governmental manufacture of munitions to the initiative, the referendum and the recall.

Impatient delegates tried to hawl him down, but he repeatedly was protected by Chairman Harding who insisted that he should be heard. A chorus of "noes" disposed of his report.

The convention referred contests in the National Committee to the National Committee itself, ratified the uncontested nominations and then adjourned.

FULTON BAG CO. SUPERINTENDENT FINED ON LABOR LAW CHARGE

Former Employer of Marie Moentmann Pleads Guilty to Hiring Girls Under 16 Years Old.

F. W. Hummert, superintendent of the Fulton Bag and Cotton Mills, 612 South Seventh street, the plant in which Marie Moentmann, 840 Michigan avenue, lost both of her arms in an accident Nov. 5, 1915, pleaded guilty this morning in Judge Miller's court to a charge of violating the child labor law and was fined $25 and costs on each of two charges.

Judge Miller entered the plea on the recommendation of State Factory Inspector Johnson, who advised leniency. In view, he stated, of the fact that the company had made a settlement for a large sum with Miss Moentmann and that they now were taking precautions which bring them within the requirements of the law.

The specific complaint in the charges were that the company was employing girls under the age of 16 and working them more than eight hours a day.

LEFT-HANDED MARRIAGE FOR A LEFT-HANDED COUPLE

A "left-handed" wedding was performed by Magistrate Henry Belneke at Belleville yesterday. Otto Hofmeister of St. Louis and Miss Closs Wittmeyer of St. Louis were the principals.

QUEEN'S DAUGHTERS ELECTION

East St. Louis Chapter Selects Mrs. J. B. Maguire for President.

The East St. Louis Queen's Daughters' Society yesterday elected officers as follows: President, Mrs. J. B. Maguire; vice presidents, Mrs. Thomas Hayes and Mrs. Eugene Halloran; secretary, Mrs. John Nustel; treasurer, Miss Lenore Vermillion.

Mrs. Anastasia M. Butler, president of the Queen's Daughters' Home Association of St. Louis, told of the work of that organization, and invited the East Side women to attend the annual picnic at Normandy Grove, July 1.

WILL BUILD SCHOOL ANNEX

Alton Board Decides to Go Ahead With $3000 Structure.

The Alton Board of Education Wednesday night decided to go ahead with the work of building an annex to the Lincoln School. The annex will be completed by Sept. 1, and will cost $3000.

The board voted the use of the schools to teachers for private classes during the summer and asked for an appropriation of $10,000 for school expenses during the coming year.

One Can Be Amused at the Auditorium, but the Coliseum's a Mausoleum

What Moose Convention Lacks in Importance It Makes Up in "Pep"—The Republican Gathering Dark, Dreary Affair.

By CLARK McADAMS
("JUST A MINUTE")
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, June 9. COME, children, and let us tour the circus while both rings are going and everything is at its height. It is a mighty fine show, and its like may not come this way again.

In this large building on East Congress street is the Auditorium Theater, in which the Progressive national convention is being held. Here are the usual standards of state delegations, the sober-sided aristocrats from Massachusetts, the long-armed apple pickers from Michigan, the red-faced farmers from Kansas and the inevitable two delegates from Porto Rico, who never saw that territory and probably came all the way from South Chicago. There are the customary flags and bunting, the great battery of telegraph instruments and the wives and daughters of delegates and politicians, who wear nice little badges as assistant sergeants-at-arms and would be sure to put down a riot if one should start.

"What!" you exclaim. "Have the Progressives all this?" Truly, my dears. They have everything the other fellows have except the party traditions and the elephant trade mark. Given those, they would let the Democrats have what was left of the Republican party.

Perkins' Binder-Twine Suit. "What did this convention cost Chicago?" you ask.

Nothing. Do you see Mr. Perkins, the man in a light binder-twine suit, who sits immediately back of the chairman? He is the Progressive angel. He attends to all that. Strangely enough, too, this is a much better convention than the one at the Coliseum, which is costing Chicago about $100,000. It has what is called pep. People come here for excitement, and go down to the other place for rest and repose.

"But it is not so important," you say. Alas, no! The people in here are all trying to make themselves believe it is, but in their hearts they know it isn't so. "Why is it not so?"

I will show you. Do you see those people under the Kansas standard holding down those two fat men? Well, those two fat men are Victor Murdock and Henry Allen. They want the Progressives to nominate Col. Roosevelt and go home. The square-jawed and rather broad-shouldered man who has Mr. Murdock about the neck is Mr. Garfield of Ohio, who wants to have an official peace conference with the other convention before the Colonel is nominated.

The tall, slight man with a touch of gray in his dark hair, who is helping hold Mr. Allen, is Gifford Pinchot of Pennsylvania, who also wants peace. The rather elderly dark gentleman who is helping those two is Mr. Bonaparte, who is very anxious that the Progressive party shall do this before it goes its separate way. In that spectacle you have your answer.

Power Above Principle. The solid men in the Progressive party do not want to go before the people next fall without first having offered to reunite the two factions of the Republican party behind Col. Roosevelt. If neither they nor the Colonel had ever flirted with the Republican party at all, but face and a heavy heart. That is Senator Penrose.

In the Massachusetts delegation you will see an old gray wolf of a man whose eyes have a way of glittering under his brows. That is Murray Crane. The saddest Roman of them all is the big-framed, center-rush looking man in the New York delegation. That is Mr. Barnes. Mr. Barnes enjoyed nominating Mr. Taft four years ago in spite of the fact that Col. Roosevelt was the obvious favorite of the party and had fairly won the nomination at the primaries, but he doesn't like the prospect of the party being out of power four more years. However, he is made of stern stuff, and will pay the price to keep the Colony out again.

In the Utah delegation you will see the renowned Senator Smoot. There are a few others of lesser importance, but when you see those four men you see the backbone of the Old Guard.

A Dangerous Practice. It is the Republican convention. It decides what the delegates will do, and they come in and do it. That is a dangerous practice, as you may easily guess, and it has cooked the goose of the Republican party. There is not a better-cooked goose anywhere. The little man in near-Hughes whiskers with the Massachusetts delegation is Senator Lodge. He is a friend of the Colonel's. It takes a great many friends like that to do any good, however, just as it takes nine tailors to make a man. The delegate leaving the hall is going out to cheer. It is not permitted inside. Now we shall hear a speech.

Chauncey Depew is going up on the platform. His speeches are like the Republican party's theory of government. They belong to a bygone age. Still he is 80, and a kindly interest always attaches to a man who has lived that long in politics without being assassinated. The sprightly old gentleman getting about on the platform is Uncle

Joe Cannon. He, too, is 80. He will also speak. That is the kind of men they have speak here. It is why the Republican party hasn't any modern ideas. If Mr. Wilson should speak before this convention it wouldn't know what he was talking about.

This is a sort of political museum. When these old fellows die, they will be mounted and hung around on the walls to keep the young men from doing anything rash. Now, children, we have seen the show, except that the man just getting up in the Illinois delegation is Mr. Mann. He is groan leader for the Republican minority in Congress. Before you go out, each of you look to see if you still have your carfare. This is a good place to lose it.

Chauncey Depew is going up on the platform. His speeches are like the Republican party's theory of government. They belong to a bygone age. Still he is 80, and a kindly interest always attaches to a man who has lived that long in politics without being assassinated. The sprightly old gentleman getting about on the platform is Uncle

Joe Cannon. He, too, is 80. He will also speak. That is the kind of men they have speak here. It is why the Republican party hasn't any modern ideas. If Mr. Wilson should speak before this convention it wouldn't know what he was talking about.

This is a sort of political museum. When these old fellows die, they will be mounted and hung around on the walls to keep the young men from doing anything rash. Now, children, we have seen the show, except that the man just getting up in the Illinois delegation is Mr. Mann. He is groan leader for the Republican minority in Congress. Before you go out, each of you look to see if you still have your carfare. This is a good place to lose it.

It is the Republican convention. It decides what the delegates will do, and they come in and do it. That is a dangerous practice, as you may easily guess, and it has cooked the goose of the Republican party. There is not a better-cooked goose anywhere. The little man in near-Hughes whiskers with the Massachusetts delegation is Senator Lodge. He is a friend of the Colonel's. It takes a great many friends like that to do any good, however, just as it takes nine tailors to make a man. The delegate leaving the hall is going out to cheer. It is not permitted inside. Now we shall hear a speech.

face and a heavy heart. That is Senator Penrose.

In the Massachusetts delegation you will see an old gray wolf of a man whose eyes have a way of glittering under his brows. That is Murray Crane. The saddest Roman of them all is the big-framed, center-rush looking man in the New York delegation. That is Mr. Barnes. Mr. Barnes enjoyed nominating Mr. Taft four years ago in spite of the fact that Col. Roosevelt was the obvious favorite of the party and had fairly won the nomination at the primaries, but he doesn't like the prospect of the party being out of power four more years. However, he is made of stern stuff, and will pay the price to keep the Colony out again.

In the Utah delegation you will see the renowned Senator Smoot. There are a few others of lesser importance, but when you see those four men you see the backbone of the Old Guard.

G. O. P. CONVENTION CUT AND DRIED, PROGRESSIVES' FIERV, BRYAN FINDS

REPUBLICANS COMPARED TO MEN ON A TREADMILL; ALL IS STATELY DIGNITY

Ill-Fated Omen That Party's Claims to Confidence Should Be Advanced by Depsw and Cannon; Borah's Speech Commended.

Written Especially for the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, June 9.—The two conventions in session in Chicago, are vastly different bodies, as anyone discovers who attends them. The delegates to both conventions call themselves Republicans; they speak in the same spirit of reverence of the history and traditions of the party, and they look forward with equal hope and faith to the Republican party of the future, but they are as different in the spirit which animates them today as if the delegates lived in different worlds, and had nothing in the past or future to link them together.

The regular Republican convention is a cut-and-dried affair. Everything moves like clockwork, and a stately dignity prevails, except when the convention is enlivened by a joke. Then the delegates laugh just enough to show that they are human, and then they fall back into the manner of men in a treadmill.

Heat to Spare at Auditorium. The Progressive convention is neither cut nor dried; it is a spontaneous body, and most of the delegates feel like Henry Allen of Wichita expressed himself. He said he felt like a man in a powder mill with matches in his pocket. If any hotheads were sent to the regular Republican convention, all the warmth has been refrigerated out of them. But there is heat enough and to spare at the Auditorium.

At the Republican convention the Committee on Credentials reported on the contests and the report was made without discussion. How different from four years ago!

But the situation is different. Then a large portion of the convention was personally interested in the contest, and the final complexion of the majority depended on the action of the convention. The committee gave temporary seats to a Taft majority, and that temporary majority proceeded to make itself a permanent majority, and then it completed the work for which it had come into the political world.

This year there were few contests, and it did not matter which way they were decided. The real contesting delegations are several blocks away, where, with a friendly Credentials Committee to pass upon their claims, all have been settled.

Depew and Cannon Ill-Fated Choice. But what an ill-fated choice to have the Republican party's claims to the nation's confidence presented by ex-Senator Depew and ex-Speaker Cannon. If the convention had had the honor who so years it could not have picked two men more responsible for the revolt of 1912 or more irritating to the Progressives.

Mr. Depew was one of the most conspicuous representatives of the predatory group which finally became so repulsive to the Republic. He had 4,000,000 Republicans preferred defeat rather than submit longer to his dictatorship. He was the man who led the last fight in the Senate against the direct election of United States Senators. There is not a single reform accomplished by the people during the last 30 years which has not been the result of his support. What a campaign the Republicans make when they put him up to represent stand-pat Republicanism as it is to reappear before the public!

"Laugh and forget your sins and your sorrows" might well have been the text of this distinguished humbug who so ably represented the New York Central in the United States Senate.

And Uncle Joel! In spite of his lovely personal qualities, he succeeded in making Republicanism synonymous with Cannonism. And this contributed as much as any other one thing to the revolt by which the Republican party lost more than half of its votes in 1912. There is only one thing that they could do which would aggravate the Progressives more than the prominence given to Depew and Cannon, viz: To make them a Conference Committee to confer with the Progressives on plans for reunifying the two parties.

Borah in Violent Contrast.

Senator Borah followed Depew and Cannon and presented what might be called a violent contrast. He was clear, forcible and earnest. He spoke as one conscious of the difference between Republicanism as it was in the beginning and Republicanism in its fallen state. He manifested an interest in having the party respond to the advanced thought of today, but he neutralized the effect of his effort by his attack upon the administration's Mexican policy. The American people do not favor intervention in Mexico and it is not likely that the Republican convention will challenge judgment on this subject by openly declaring in favor of intervention, although the platform may contain language which interventionists will construe to mean intervention.

The contest in the Progressive convention over the resolution inviting the Republican convention to appoint a Conference Committee was the first real debate of the conventions. The speeches of the temporary chairmen were keynote speeches and, being acceptable to their respective conventions, aroused no opposition. But fire flashed as soon as the subject of a conference was broached.

Ex-Secretary Garfield introduced the resolution and supported it in an argument which appealed to the judgment of the majority of the delegates. He referred to the resolution adopted by the Progressive National Committee last January, pledging the convention to do all in its power to bring about harmonious co-operation between the two wings of the party, and he emphasized the very patent fact that the offer to confer would be an advantage to the Progressives, even if it was rejected.

The resolution was at once combatted by the more radical element in the convention, led by ex-Congressman Murdock of Kansas and Congressman McDonald of Michigan. Murdock warned them that they could expect nothing from the Republican convention and favored proceeding with the nomination of Roosevelt. Congressman McDonald went even further than Murdock and advised the Republican convention to depart thence and make its abode in the fiery realm, wherein even a drop of water cannot be had to cool a parched tongue.

The speeches of Murdock and McDonald were cheered and there were even suggestions of a stampede, but Garfield, Edwards and Poulke supported Garfield and their counsel prevailed. But the light indicated the spirit of the convention and the independence of the delegates and, it might be added, gave great encouragement to Democratic onlookers. The acceptance by the Republican convention of the Progressive invitation to appoint a committee on conference makes it the important event of the week. There is a strong element in both conventions in favor of getting together, but the difficulties in the way are great and the Conference Committee will win undying fame if it can devise a satisfactory plan for bringing the two parties into harmonious co-operation. I shall discuss the platform in tomorrow's dispatches.

FULL TEXT OF PLATFORM WHICH WAS ADOPTED BY REPUBLICAN CONVENTION

COLISEUM, CHICAGO, June 9. FOLLOWING is the platform as adopted by the Republican convention:

In 1861 the Republican party stood for the Union. As it stood for the union of states it stood for a united people, true to American ideals, loyal to American traditions, knowing no allegiance except to the Constitution, to the Government and to the flag of the United States.

We believe in American policies at home and abroad.

PROTECTION OF AMERICAN RIGHTS.

We declare that we believe in and will enforce the protection of every American citizen in all the rights secured to him by the Constitution, treaties, and the law of nations, at home and abroad, by land and sea. These rights, which, in violation of the specific promise of their party made at St. Louis in 1912, the Democratic President and the Democratic Congress have failed to defend, we will unflinchingly maintain.

FOREIGN RELATIONS.

We desire peace, the peace of justice and right, and believe in maintaining a straight and honest neutrality between the belligerents in the great war in Europe. We must perform all our duties and insist upon our rights as neutrals without fear and without favor. We believe that peace and neutrality, as well as the dignity and influence of the United States, cannot be preserved by shifty expedients, by phony-making, by performances in language, or by attitudes of war changing in an effort to secure groups of voters. The present administration has destroyed our influence abroad and humiliated us in our own eyes. The Republican party believes that a firm, consistent and courageous foreign policy, always maintained by Republican Presidents, in accordance with American traditions, is the best, as it is the only true way, to preserve our peace and restore us to our rightful place among the nations. We believe in the pacific settlement of international disputes and favor the establishment of a world court for that purpose.

MEXICAN.

We deeply sympathize with the 15,000,000 people of Mexico, who, for three years, have seen their country devastated, their homes destroyed, their fellow citizens murdered and their women outraged by armed bands of desperadoes led by self-seeking, conscienceless agitators, who, when temporarily successful in any locality, have neither sought nor been able to restore order or establish and maintain peace.

We express our horror and indignation at the outrages which have been and are being perpetrated by these bandits upon American men and women, who were or are in Mexico, by invitation of the laws and of the Government of that country, and whose rights to security in person and property are guaranteed by solemn treaty obligations. We denounce the indefensible methods of interference employed by this administration in the internal affairs of Mexico, and refer with shame to its failure to discharge the duty of this country as next friend to Mexico, its duty to other Powers who have relied upon us as such friend, and its duty to our citizens in Mexico, in permitting the continuance of such conditions, first, by failure to act promptly and firmly, and second, by lending its influence to the continuance of such conditions through recognition of one of the factions responsible for these outrages.

We pledge our aid in restoring order and maintaining peace in Mexico. We promise to our citizens on and near our border and to those in Mexico, wherever they may be found, adequate and absolute protection in their lives, liberty and property.

MONROE DOCTRINE.

We reaffirm our approval of the Monroe Doctrine, and declare its maintenance to be a policy of this country essential to its present and future peace and safety and to the achievement of its manifest destiny.

LATIN-AMERICAN.

We favor the continuance of Republican policies, which will result in drawing more and more closely the political, financial and social relations between this country and the countries of Latin-America.

PHILIPPINES.

We renew our allegiance to the Philippine policy inaugurated by McKinley, approved by Congress and consistently carried out by Roosevelt and Taft. Even in this short time it has enormously improved the material and social conditions of the islands, given the Philippine people a constantly increasing participation in their government, and, if persisted in, it will bring still greater benefits in the future.

We accepted the responsibility of the islands as a duty to civilization and the Filipino people. To leave with our task half done would break our pledges, injure our prestige among nations and imperil what has already been accomplished.

We condemn the Democratic administration for its attempt to abandon the Philippines, which was prevented only by the vigorous opposition of Republican members of Congress, aided by a few patriotic Democrats.

We reiterate our unqualified approval of the action taken in December, 1911, by the President and Congress to secure with Russia, as with other countries, a treaty that will recognize the absolute right of expatriation and prevent all discrimination of whatever kind between American citizens, whether native born or alien, and regardless of race, religion or previous political allegiance. We renew the pledge to observe this principle, and to maintain the right of asylum, which is neither to be surrendered nor restricted, and we unite in the cherished hope that the war which is now devastating the world may speedily end, with a complete and lasting restoration of brotherhood among the nations of the earth and the assurance of full equal rights, civil and religious, to all men in every land.

PROTECTION OF THE COUNTRY.

In order to maintain our peace and make certain the security of our people within our own borders, the country must have not only adequate, but thorough and complete national defense, ready for any emergency. We must have a sufficient and effective regular army, and a provision for ample reserves, already drilled and disciplined, who can be called at once to the colors when the hour of danger comes.

We must have a navy so strong and so well proportioned and equipped, so thoroughly ready and prepared, that no enemy can gain command of the sea and effect a landing in force on either our Western or our Eastern coast. To secure these results, we must have a coherent and continuous policy of national defense, which, even in these perilous times, the Democratic party has utterly failed to develop, but which we promise to give to the country.

TARIFF.

The Republican party stands now, ways has, in the fullest sense, for the policy of tariff protection to American industries and American labor, and does not regard an anti-dumping provision as an adequate substitute. Such protection should be reasonable in amount, but sufficient to protect the American industry and American labor, and be so adjusted as to prevent undue exactions by monopolies or trusts. It should, moreover, give special attention to securing the industrial independence of the United States, as in the case of dutiable goods, given the Philippine people a constantly increasing participation in their government, and, if persisted in, it will bring still greater benefits in the future.

The Underwood tariff act is a complete failure in every respect. Under its administration, imports have enormously increased. In spite of the fact that intercourse with foreign countries has been largely cut off by reason of the war, while the revenues of which we stand in such dire need have been greatly reduced. Under the normal conditions which prevailed prior to the war, it was clearly demonstrated that this act deprived the American producer and the American wage earner of that protection which entitled them to meet their foreign competitors, and, but for the adventitious conditions created by the war, would long since have paralyzed all forms of American industry and deprived American labor of its just reward.

It has not in the least reduced the cost of living, which has constantly advanced from the date of its enactment. Welfare of our people demands its repeal and the substitution of a measure which, in peace as well as in war, will produce ample revenue and give reasonable protection to all forms of American production in mine, forest, field and factory.

We favor the creation of a tariff commission, with complete power to gather and compile information for the use of Congress in all matters relating to the tariff.

BUSINESS.

The Republican party has long believed in the rigid supervision and strict regulation of the transportation and great corporations of the country. It has put its creed into its deeds, and all really effective laws regulating the railroads and the great industrial corporations are the work of Republican Congresses and Presidents. For this policy of regulation and supervision, the Democrats, in a stumbling and piece-meal way, are left within the sphere of private enterprise, and in direct competition with its own citizens, a policy which is sure to result in waste, great expense to the taxpayer and in an inferior product.

The Republican party firmly believes that all who violate the laws in regulation of business should be individually punished. But prosecution is very different from persecution, and business success, no matter how honestly attained, is apparently regarded by the Democratic party as in itself a crime. Such doctrines and beliefs choke enterprise and stifle prosperity. The Republican party believes in encouraging American business, as it believes in, and will seek to advance, all American interests.

RURAL CREDITS.

We favor an effective system of rural credits as opposed to the ineffective law proposed by the present Democratic administration.

Rural Free Delivery. We favor the extension of the rural free delivery system and condemn the Democratic administration for curtailing and crippling it.

MERCHANT MARINE.

In view of the policies adopted by all the maritime nations to encourage their shipping interests, and in order to enable us to compete with them for the ocean-carrying trade, we favor the payment to ships engaged in the foreign trade of liberal compensation for services actually rendered in carrying the mails, and such further legislation as will build up an adequate American merchant marine and give us ships which may be requisitioned by the Government in time of national emergency.

We are utterly opposed to the Government ownership of vessels, as proposed by the Democratic party, because Government ownership, while effectively preventing the development of the American merchant marine by private capital, will be entirely unable to provide for the vast volume of American freight, and will leave us more helpless than ever in the hard grip of foreign syndicates.

TRANSPORTATION.

Interstate and intrastate transportation have become so interwoven that the attempt to apply two and often several sets of laws to its regulation, has produced conflicts of authority, embarrassment in operation and inconvenience and expense to the public.

The entire transportation system of the country has become essentially national. We, therefore, favor such action by legislation, or, if necessary, through an amendment of the Constitution of the United States, as will result in placing it under exclusive Federal control.

ECONOMY AND A NATIONAL BUDGET.

The increasing cost of the national Government and the need for the greatest economy of its resources, in order to meet the growing demands of the people for Government service, call for the severest condemnation of the wasteful appropriations of this Democratic administration, of its shameful raids on the treasury and of its opposition to and rejection of President Taft's oft-repeated proposals and earnest efforts to secure economy and efficiency through the establishment of a simple, business-like budget system, to which we pledge our support and which we so declare to be necessary to effect any real reform in the administration of national finances.

CONSERVATION.

We believe in a careful husbandry of all the natural resources of the nation—a husbandry which means development without waste; use without abuse.

CIVIL SERVICE REFORM.

The civil service law has always been sustained by the Republican party, and we renew our repeated declaration that it shall be thoroughly and honestly enforced and extended wherever practicable. The Democratic party has created, since March 4, 1911, 80,000 offices outside of the civil service law, at an annual cost of $4,000,000 to the taxpayers of the country.

We condemn the gross abuse and the misuse of the law by the present Democratic administration and pledge ourselves to a reorganization of this service along lines of efficiency and economy.

TERRITORIAL OFFICIALS.

Reaffirming the attitude long maintained by the Republican party, we hold that officials appointed to administer the government of any territory should be bona fide residents of the territory in which their duties are to be performed.

LABOR LAWS.

We pledge the Republican party to the faithful enforcement of all Federal laws passed for the protection of labor. We favor vocational education; the enactment and rigid enforcement of a Federal child labor law; the enactment of a generous and comprehensive workmen's compensation law, within the commerce power of Congress, and an accident compensation law covering all Government employees. We favor the collection and collation, under the direction of the Department of Labor, of complete data relating to industrial hazards for the information of Congress, to the end that such legislation may be adopted as may be calculated to secure the safety, conservation and protection of labor from the dangers incident to industry and transportation.

SUFFRAGE.

The Republican party, reaffirming its faith in government of the people, by the people, for the people, as measures of justice to one-half the adult people of this country, favors the extension of the suffrage to women, but recognizes the right of each state to settle this question for itself.

Such are our principles, such are our purposes and policies. We close as we began. The times are dangerous and the future is fraught with peril. The great issues of the day have been confused by words and phrases. The American spirit, which made the country and saved the Union, has been forgotten by those charged with the responsibility of power. We appeal to all Americans, whether naturalized or native-born, to prove to the world that we are Americans in thought and deed, with one loyalty, one hope, one aspiration. We call on all Americans to be true to the spirit of America, to the great traditions of their common country, and, above all things, to keep the faith.

CONVENTION NOTES

By Clark McAdams.

CHICAGO, June 9.—The suffragists marched through the cold rain to the Coliseum, only to have more cold water thrown on them.

All the people are getting at these conventions is an opportunity to sing a few patriotic songs. The bosses never sing.

Col. Roosevelt said he would come to Chicago and address the Republican convention if it wanted him to do so. He is not coming.

When the Progressive convention begins to chant something prejudicial to peace like "We Won't Take Hughes," Mr. Perkins signals for band music.

Col. Roosevelt wired the convention to unite on "a man of such powerful character, steadfast conviction and proved ability that if elected he will place this nation where it belongs by making it true to itself and therefore true to all mankind." Even some of the Progressives smiled when this part of his message was read. One of them said: "I wish he might have put a somewhat better face on it by saying that such a man ought not to wear glasses or have prominent teeth."

Evidently there is no such word in the parliamentary lexicon as hell. When Congressman Smith of Michigan urged Progressives to tell the Republican convention to go home, Chairman Robins rapped for order and announced that unparliamentary language would be expunged from the record.

When Mr. Perkins received the report yesterday morning, one of them asked if he talked on the phone that morning with the Colonel. "I have," Mr. Perkins answered. "What did you talk about?" "I told him it was raining here, and he said it was also raining at Oyster Bay."

"It was pretty gloomy in both places, I guess," said one of the reporters.

The feeling that Mr. Wilson ought to pay for both conventions prevails at both the Auditorium and the Coliseum.

When the news that the Republican subcommittee had refused to do anything for the suffragists reached Progressive headquarters, one of the latter said: "I don't believe that is the way Justice Hughes would have treated the girls."

Mr. Allen wanted the Progressive Conference Committee to report back to the Progressive Convention at 8 o'clock last night.

"Great Scott!" said a delegate. "The people who are running the Republican convention don't meet before midnight!"

One of the Progressive leaders says that if the Republicans nominate Hughes and Fairbanks because neither of them has offended the German-Americans, the people will call it the Hughes-Fairbanks ticket and it will not carry anything but Milwaukee.

It rains in Chicago all day and all night—every day and every night. Another big fight in the North Sea.

The Republican convention thought of holding a night session last night, but the old guard already had a night engagement.

It is much sadder to get into the Progressive convention, but one gets out of the Coliseum a great deal quicker.

Bill Finn of Pennsylvania, who led the delegation from his State in the fight for Roosevelt four years ago, spoke before the Progressive convention yesterday. He said he had been hovering around national convention 30 years, but the way he pronounced "hovering" broke up his speech.

Chairman Robins of the Progressive convention prefers to recognize notables on the floor, and he addresses each of them as William Dudley Foulk, Prof. John Smith, George Thomas So-and-so, etc., etc., omitting no man's middle name or title. The Progressives are not numerous, but they are very select.

There was a fist fight between Progressives and Republicans in the Congress Hotel the other night. The two parties have not been able to get together any other way.

TWO MEXICANS HANGED FOR PART IN RAID ON COLUMBUS

DEMING, N. M., June 8.—Francisco Alvarez and Juan Sanchez, two of the Villa followers who took part in the raid on Columbus, N. M., March 9, were hanged at 6:30 this morning. The men were hanged singly.

Two companies of New Mexico State militia guarded the interior and approaches to the county jail. There was no attempt at disorder. Both men met their fate stoically, smoking cigarettes until they ascended the scaffold. They were accompanied by a spiritual adviser. Asked on the gallows if they had any statement to make, each replied, "No."

Five other Villa followers condemned to death were granted a reprieve by Gov. W. C. McDonald for further investigation of their cases.

Darken Your Gray Hair

Look Young—All Your Gray Hair Changed to an Even Dark Shade by Sulpho-Sage—Harmless—No Dye.

Not a trace of gray shows in your hair after a few applications of Sulpho-Sage Hair Color Restorer to hair and scalp. Sulpho-Sage is a harmless, ready-to-use liquid which makes scalp and hair healthy. If your hair is gray, streaked with gray, prematurely gray, faded thin or falling, simply shampoo hair and scalp with Sulpho-Sage Hair Color Restorer. It is delightful to apply, as it is not sticky or messy. All your gray hair and entire head of hair then quickly turns to an even beautiful dark shade, leaving all your hair healthy, fluffy, soft, radiant, full of life, fascinating; no astringent dandruff, no itching, no loss of hair, no money-back guarantee. Only 50c a bottle at Judge & Daughtry Co.'s store, 111 Olive Street, Seventh and Locust streets, and Broadway and Washington streets. Out-of-town folks supplied by mail. ADV.

So the eager and susceptible hopes of the suffragists bounded up again. And there were plenty of statements to be trotted out. Mrs. Catt declared "The beginning of the end of our struggle is seen in this action of the Republican committee. The Democrats will probably

Having this extra weight, a person who is afflicted in their own mind that they are too stout are advised to go to Wolf-Wohl's and get a box of oil of korein capsules and take one after each meal and one just before retiring at night.

After a few days treatment has been reported to show a noticeable reduction in weight, improved digestion and a return of the normal skin color. The skin is bright and the skin less flabby in appearance as superfluous fat disappears.

Oil of korein is inexpensive, cannot injure the system and is safe for everyone who wants to reduce 15 or 20 pounds is advised to give this treatment a trial.

WASHINGTON, June 2.—Japan's new Ambassador to the United States, Amoro Sato, probably will assume the duties of his post about Sept. 1. It was said today.

Sato, an attaché of the Japanese Foreign Office succeeds Viscount China. Newly appointed Ambassador to Great Britain. Sato formerly was Ambassador to Austria. His appointment was made here last night.

He is a diplomat of large and varied experience, having served in several European capitals. He is remembered in the United States particularly for the part he took as an advocate of the League of Nations at the Russo-Japanese peace conference at Portsmouth, N. H.

A Message—

before the session began.

The convention was late in being called to order. The lenders were sparing for the money. A certain element among the Progressives was for trying to nominate Theodore Roosevelt in spite of everything. In the intervals the noise kept up, grew even greater, hoarse and hysterically commensurate. "Teddy, the man who made the presidency," was a chant monotonously kept up in the corner.

Here and there a delegate who had not been at the dividing line of the two matches in my pocket. Last night in the corridors of the Congress Annex Hotel a Republican delegate said to me, 'You Progressives can have everything you want except Roosevelt.' I jumped and yelled, 'You should not have mentioned Roosevelt to me,' I told him, 'It startled me.'

"Shall we get down on our knees?" one of the speakers asked.

"Never," shrieked the crowd.

"Then what you want to send to the Republican commission is not a committee for harmony, but the nomination of Theodore Roosevelt."

This was the signal for a great demonstration. The moment was dangerous. More gentlemen stood up in the aisles, demanding to be heard.

"Now, you want Teddy," said the speaker, bending toward them. "Take it from me, if you want him, you must nominate him before this day is through."

Hedman now, hammering on the kitchen table produced no effect.

"Those in the aisles take their seats," cried the chairman, frenzied.

"We might want to demonstrate," called back a thin delegate from Missouri. The laugh helped to calm the house. The leaders, ready for such an emergency, read a long telegram from Theodore Roosevelt, doubtless held in reserve for just such a time. It was the immediate reply to one asking him if he would address the Republican convention.

When the reading was done, the crowd had visibly relaxed. It was no longer so hysterical. The telegram was followed by an exhortation to patience.

"We all know what we are here for," said Mr. Wilkinson of Minnesota. "We all know the man we want. Let us not be petulant. We have made a contract to make every fair and honest effort to form again a grand old party."

Convention Had No Desire to Be Petulant.

The convention approved. It had no real desire to be petulant. Its impatience was only over-zeal. But it roused again when Albert Bushnell Hart requested some assurance that if they held up the nomination, the Republicans would not nominate their candidate and thus leave to the Progressives the onus of splitting the party. Feeling which had been quiet began to rise again, in spite of the very pacific speech of Charles Bonaparte.

"If the Republicans refuse to agree to a conference, I promise that it will not delay either the nomination or the election of Theodore Roosevelt," he said.

But the convention had got the bit in its teeth now and was running wild. "Don't get excited," the chairman pleaded. "Now just keep cool."

But no one wanted to keep cool. A firebrand gentleman, MacDonald, a Progressive Congressman from Michigan, ascended the platform.

"The time has come for brutal frankness," he said. "The invisible Government controls the Republican convention now as it did in 1912."

Once more men were on their feet and in the aisles, their faces distorted with anger. All over the house men rose.

"Gifford Pinchot and Mr. Garfield are gentlemen," he said. "But in the other convention they are dealing with thieves and robbers."

Uproar broke loose again, crystallized at the last by a loud "good-by, good-by" from one of the balconies, delivered through a megaphone.

"The only message we should send to the Republican convention is to tell them to 'go to hell,'" said MacDonald, thus throwing his match into the keg of powder.

The lower floors of hotels last night were a solid mass of sweating, pushing, yelling and frenzied men. The Roosevelt followers were the noisy ones. To the beating of drums they screamed in unison, over and over, a steady bass monotone: "We want Teddy; we want Teddy; we want Teddy."

What does it mean? It is all noise. Probably. The men upstairs are not disturbed by the turmoil. They go on calmly with their President making. Last night it looked as though all the noise in the world would not win an additional delegate for Roosevelt.

FOUR INJURED WHEN STREET CAR HITS POLICE AUTO

Two Patrolmen Severely Hurt, Third and Chauffeur Less Seriously, in Crash.

Two patrolmen were severely injured and a third patrolman and a police chauffeur suffered minor hurts when a Bellefontaine car crashed into an auto patrol at Twentieth and Angelica streets about 7:30 last night. The policemen were responding to a fake alarm that a man had been stabbed to death.

The patrol was going west on Angelica street, a private ambulance was running north on Twentieth street and the trolley car was southbound on Twentieth. Approaching Twentieth, the chauffeur in charge of the patrol sounded his gong. The ambulance driver stopped to give the police right of way and the motorman, evidently under the impression that it was the ambulance gong he had heard, kept on going. The street car hit the patrol. Patrolman Joseph F. Meyer's left arm was broken and he was cut on the forehead; Patrolman James J. Dunn was cut on the scalp and his back was wrenched; Patrolman Joseph W. Vogel and Chauffeur Edgar Simpkins were cut and bruised. Meyer was taken to the city hospital.

Nine Bitten by Dogs.

Unmuzzled dogs yesterday added nine more victims to this year's list of dog-bite cases, that has already reached the total of 49. Those bitten yesterday were Herman Ginsberg, 1432 North Twenty-first street; John Fruhwirth, 1400 Bremen avenue; Walter Buchanan, 6641 Marmaduke avenue; Paul McGroarty, 3827 Ashland avenue; Walter Barrett, 124 South Ninth street; Arthur Michael, 3711 Garfield avenue; John Willis, 4234 Norfolk avenue; Reinhard Muskopf, 1318 Chestnut street; and John Sherer, 3514 Cook avenue.

FRECKLES

Don't Hide Them With a Veil;
Remove Them With the Othine Prescription.

This prescription for the removal of freckles was written by a prominent physician and is usually so successful in removing freckles and giving a clear, beautiful complexion that it is sold by any druggist under guarantee to refund the money if it fails. Don't hide your freckles under a veil; get an ounce of othine and remove them. Even the first few applications should show a wonderful improvement, some of the lighter freckles vanishing entirely.

Be sure to ask the druggist for the double strength othine; it is this that is sold on the money-back guarantee.—ADV.

WAR-TIME BERLIN TRANSFORMED INTO CITY OF SPENDERS

Upper Classes, Enriched, Revel in Luxuries as Poor Struggle Along.

Correspondence of the Associated Press.

BERLIN, June 9.—"Alles besetzt" (all full) said a gorgeously uniformed individual standing before the street door of the big Friedrichstrasse cafe. The man to whom he spoke had no intention of going in, but he happened to look toward the door as he passed and the uniformed one had parroted forth his one phrase so many times that a glance in his direction sufficed to evoke it again.

The passerby, however, grew curious, and made a trip through the better parts of the city. This is what he found:

Three better-class cafes with from 10 to 30 persons standing outside or in the entrance way, waiting for a table to become vacant.

All other wine or beer restaurants visited so full that only in one could a free table for two persons be found. Two others where the doorkeeper announced in advance: "Alles besetzt."

The observer had for months encountered a daily difficulty in finding a table in a leading restaurant of more than 50 tables. In one of the places on Unter den Linden the head waiter had been graciously pleased to let him dine on his promise not to retain the table longer than an hour. In another Unter den Linden restaurant he had found that it was all but impossible to eat without reserving a table in advance. And these two places are the most expensive ones in all Berlin.

The condition is symptomatic. War, which brings poverty and misery to so many, brings wealth to others. Many persons who had been struggling along with barely more than the necessities of life for years have grown wealthy almost overnight. And they are spending lavishly, spending carelessly. Berlin has become the City of Spenders.

The crowds that fill the better class places go there in spite of the fact that everything costs more than before the war. Beer is dearer. Even coffee has increased in price. The still considerable stocks of the highest grade French champagnes are finding a bigger sale than ever before, in the face of a price increase of 4 or 5 marks a bottle. A big German champagne firm recently declared a dividend three greater than that of the preceding year. It was only one dividend contributed by the spenders.

Caviar $10.50 a pound. Caviar costs from $4.50 to $6 a pound in peace times in Berlin. Until the recent prohibition of the further import of nonindispensable articles put an end to the business, vast quantities of Astrachan caviar were being sold for prices upwards of $10.50. Similar conditions existed as to other luxuries.

Dealers in fine porcelains, Oriental rugs, bronzes and antiques generally are doing a flourishing business. There are almost no really fine rugs left among the stocks of the Berlin dealers. None can be secured by import, and the spenders have bought up all that were on hand. A Berlin resident went recently to one of the leading auction houses in the hope of securing an old Turkish rug at a reasonable price. It sold for 20 per cent more than would have been realized in peace times. The same was true of other rugs, of jewelry, in fact of nearly everything offered.

The most fashionable jeweler in Berlin paid to an Associated Press representative: "We are having great difficulty in keeping abreast of orders. This is, of course, due in part to a lack of workmen, but it is due also to an amount of business which—thank you, from the tourist trade, which is naturally altogether lacking—is probably higher than it was before the war. People of a class who never came here before now are buying, and buying good and expensive articles. I have in mind a typical case."

"Before the war a certain woman used to come in once or twice a year and buy some trifling article, rarely paying more than $25. She bargained inveterately, always striving to have the price reduced, and none of us liked to wait on her. She came in last week and asked to be shown some pearl necklaces. She selected one for $7500 and paid for it in cash, without bargaining. Her husband is a leather dealer."

"Another woman of a similar type has made several large purchases from us. Before the war her husband had a small machine shop, employing three or four hands. He is now running day and night with 60 and has made $500,000."

Many Buy Pianos. The leading German diamond mining company will pay for 1915 a 46 per cent dividend, against 35 for 1914, although cut off from its mines in German South Africa. The sale at increased prices of its stock on hand in Germany justifies this, company officials said. The spenders have been buying pianos. Their children are taking piano lessons. Fashionable tailors are making evening clothes for men who never before felt the need of them or who could not afford them if they did. A mild winter has not been able to affect seriously the business of the best furriers.

The Associated Press representative asked the head of the largest theater ticket agency in Berlin about conditions in the theatrical world.

"Absolutely at the top notch," he said. "Our business is every bit as good as at any previous time, if not better. Indeed, I am disposed to think that it is better. All theaters are doing well. The people seem to have plenty of money, and they are spending it."

This last sentence of the ticket agent appears to sum up the situation. In the nature of things, the number of these spenders, of the people who are benefitting by the war, must be small. Wages for day labor have, it is true, increased greatly, but there are fewer men laborers left to draw them. Reclamations from military service affect chiefly only skilled craftsmen and leaders of undertakings. Hence the day laborers of military age are mainly with the colors. One notes the absence of their custom in the cheap saloons and beer restaurants, many of which are struggling along with difficulty, and some of which have had to close their doors. But as one ascends the scale, one begins to meet the spenders, and their number increases in direct ratio with the expensiveness of the resort visited.

ROOSEVELT'S SON ASSURES HIS CHUM'S AUNT SHE'S A "WHIZZ"

Myrtle's Hobbies by Restoring Enigmatic Compliment and Announces That He Had "Spiffy" Time.

BOSTON, June 8.—Following closely in the footsteps of his illustrious father, whose propensity for labeling people and things is common knowledge, young Archie Roosevelt shows signs of rivaling T. R.

Young Archie, now a junior at Harvard, was invited by a college chum to spend the evening at the home of a favorite aunt. With visions of home-made pie and prim colonial parlors in his mind, Archie accepted the invitation. The chum's aunt proved anything but the precise New England spinster whom Archie had conjured up in imagination. After the formalities were over, the aunt proceeded to make young Archie feel very much "at home."

Auntie kept the two young men in a continual uproar of hilarity during the evening.

As the two young men were about to leave, Archie, beaming all over with smiles, put out his hand to "auntie" and said:

"Miss Blank, you're a regular whizz! Thanks for the bully evening; I've had a 'spiffy' time." Auntie is trying to make out what is a "whizz."

NEW BRITISH TAX ON AMERICANS WHO HOLD U. S. STOCKS

Citizens Domiciled in England Must Deposit Securities or Pay Extra 2 Shillings Assessment.

MAY CAUSE AN EXODUS

Embassy Besieged by Persons Seeking Information on Income Tax Ruling.

LONDON, June 8.—Americans domiciled here who are subject to the income tax must sell to or deposit with the British Government their American securities, under penalty of an extra two shillings tax. This information is given to the Associated Press today by an official of the American Dollar Securities Committee. The ruling holds whether the securities are held here or in America.

The tax of two shillings added to the income tax, will apply to Americans who have resided here long enough to become subject to the regular income tax, the incidence of which will be followed, except that no abatement will be granted on American securities which appear on the Government's list. American securities are deposited with the Government only the usual income tax, with the ordinary abatement, will be charged, but the Government prefers to purchase the securities outright.

In the event that American residents here deposit their American securities held in the United States, the Government will collect the interest and pay it to the owners in sterling. American residents holding such securities in America may either deposit them with or sell them to the Government through the agency of J. P. Morgan & Co. in New York.

It is not unlikely that when this ruling becomes generally known there will be an exodus of wealthy Americans living in England. The American Embassy and Consulate have been besieged by American residents seeking information on this point, many of whom threaten to depart unless the Government makes an exception in their favor.

A member of the Dollar Securities Committee, who discussed this matter today, was very positive that all residents subject to the regular income tax will be liable to a penal addition unless they dispose of their American holdings. Residents who are now liable to a tax on unearned income will be compelled to pay 5 shillings on the pound, while those to whom the super-tax applies will pay still more, unless they meet the Government's demand.

PRESIDENT TO SELECT NATIONAL COMMITTEE HEAD IN FEW DAYS

Choice Said to Be From Among Senators Stone, Pomerene, James and Senator Davis.

WASHINGTON, June 8.—Simultaneously with the announcement that President Wilson had finished his draft of the Democratic platform it was stated semi-officially that the name of the next chairman of the Democratic National Committee, probably would be announced in a few days. While, perfunctorily, the committee will name its chairman, practically the choice of the head of the party is always binding.

The platform as framed by the President and already outlined in news dispatches will be put through without change, as well as all of his suggestions to the convention.

Speculation as to the President's choice for chairman of the National Committee at present swings around Senators Stone, Pomerene, James and Solicitor-General John W. Davis of West Virginia.

MAN, WIFE AND 4 CHILDREN FOUND DEAD IN THEIR HOME

CHICAGO, June 8.—Mrs. Jennie Susanek, 35 years old, her husband, Frank, 40, and their four children—John, 8; Jennie, 6; Mary, 4; and Martha, 2 years old—were found dead in their home this morning.

The mother's head had been crushed with a baseball bat.

The police believe the father beat the woman to death and then turned on the gas, asphyxiating himself and the four children.

Losses Allocated Suits.
A jury in Circuit Judge Jones' court yesterday returned a verdict for the defense in the $10,000 allocation suit of Mrs. Evelyn Zell, a milliner, of 802 North Broadway, against her mother-in-law, Mrs. Anna Hake of 2503 Dodder street. Mrs. Zell alleged that the affections of her husband, Albert Zell, a traveling salesman, were alienated from her by Mrs. Hake, his mother.

Military Course for Teachers.
LAWRENCE, Kan., June 8.—A special course in military science and tactics is being offered in the summer session of the University of Kansas in session here, under the direction of Capt. Frank Jones of the Kansas National Guard. The instruction, it is announced, will enable high school teachers to give the rudiments of military drills to their pupils next fall.

Busy Bee Bakery Special This Week.
Coburg Coffee Cake (nut filled), 15c each.

Missouri Postoffice Robbed.
GRANBY, Mo., June 8.—The Granby postoffice safe was blown open Tuesday night and more than $200 stolen.

The prompt return of a lost article usually follows when the loss is advertised in the Post-Dispatch. More Lost and Found wants are printed in the Post-Dispatch than in any other St. Louis newspaper. COMBINED.

WASHINGTON GETS RUMORS OF GERMAN PLOT IN NICARAGUA

L. S. Agents Ordered to Investigate Reports of Plans for a Revolution.

WASHINGTON, June 9.—American and other consular agents in Nicaragua have been instructed to investigate persistent rumors that German representatives are engaged in an effort to work up a revolution against the government. Rumors to this effect have reached the State Department from various sources. While they have not been confirmed, the policy of the administration, especially since the ratification of the new treaty under which the United States is to pay $3,000,000 to Nicaragua and obtain a naval base at Fonseca Bay, is to keep in as close touch as possible with developments. There is some unrest in Nicaragua, but this is the normal condition. It is more or less accentuated at present because of the fact that an election is soon to be held. The United States has taken the position that it has no interest in Nicaragua politics so long as no effort is made to restore to power the old Yelazca party which was put out in 1903.

Inquiry Into Elevated Train Wreck.

NEW YORK, June 9.—A grand jury investigation has begun into the rear end collision yesterday between two Third Avenue elevated railroad trains in which one person was killed and 15 were injured, some perhaps fatally. The town-eman at the scene was arrested on a charge of homicide after a coroner's inquiry.

COUNT WANTED GERARD TO PRINT FAKE INTERVIEW

Ambassador Tells of Request in Denying Peace Statement Credited to Him.

BERLIN, June 9, by wireless to Sayville.—The American Ambassador, James W. Gerard, has repudiated an interview recently attributed to him on the subject of President Wilson's peace efforts, the Overseas News Agency says. The Ambassador also is quoted as asserting that Count Friedrich von Westarp, conservative leader in the Reichstag, desired Gerard to have a spurious interview published some time ago, but that the Ambassador declined. According to the news agency, a manuscript containing a copy of the spurious interview was submitted to Gerard with the idea that it was to have been published in the National Zeitung, but the Ambassador refused to sanction it, declaring it was untrue.

GOV. WILLIS OF OHIO PUTS BURTON IN NOMINATION

Opens With Assertion That Fires of Party Strife Have Burned Out.

"NEED RED-BLOODED MAN" Declares Nation Wants Man in White House Who Knows the World.

CHICAGO, June 9.—Gov. Frank B. Willis of Ohio placed Theodore E. Burton in nomination for the presidency at the Republican National Convention today in a speech in which he said: "History is to be made here today; we shall make America greater or disappoint a world. The Republican party this year means business, and it expects us to transact that business patriotically, unselfishly and with an eye single to the nation's weal. Fires of Hatred Burned. The fires of hatred and factional strife have burned out. Let no man sit still among the ashes seize a fast-dying ember of discord and wave it above his head as a battle signal; the battle of 1912 is over—no apologies should be asked or given by any man for honest differences of opinion in that conflict—1912 is behind us, 1916 is upon us. Nearly two generations ago and almost on this very spot the Republican party began to make national history in the famous wigwag. When it came into being, it found a treasury bankrupt, business prostrate, the country divided and overclouded with impending civil war. Like the mighty Hamilton, it touched the corpse of public credit and it sprang upon its feet. It supported on its strong protecting arm the frail and fainting industries of the republic and brought them back to life; it kept all the stars in the flag, their glory untarnished and their luster undimmed; and it elected and re-elected to the presidency the first great Republican, the emancipator of a race, the most inspiring soul in all our Western world, Abraham Lincoln. Thus brought into being in the travail of war, the Republican party has written all the history of the last five decades. In the midst of world problems, we need in the White House a red-blooded American who knows the world. The nominee of this convention must be a Republican seasoned in the experiences of the past, able to the needs of the present and able to hear and heed the beckoning voice of the oncoming future. He must be a fearless opponent of extravagance and a staunch advocate of old-fashioned economy; he must know the fiscal system of the country and be an uncompromising defender of the patriotic nation-building policy of protection to American workingmen and American enterprise. What Office Calls For. "His leadership must be that which comes from the successful advocacy of great principles as well as from the possession of attractive, commanding, inspiring personality. "Personal leadership alone would leave the party confused and disorganized at the end of the presidential term; leadership crystallized about the great principles of the Republican party will leave it cohesive and harmonious undivided by personal factions. Such are the qualities of leadership our candidate must have and such a candidate Ohio offers to the nation. "As a member of Congress for 16 years, he took prominent part in the legislation of that period, embracing within its scope the Spanish-American war, sound money, the tariff, anti-trust laws, banking and financial legislation, conservation, betterment of labor conditions—he helped make Republican history and that is the history of progress. "Elevated to the Senate in 1902, he at once took the high station to which he was entitled by his wide experience his profound learning, his ability as a debater, his high character and his unflinching devotion to public duty. He fought the peoples' fight for economy—and won, not only the battle, but the esteem and respect of friend and foe alike. "As author, scholar, statesman, he is a recognized authority in legislation and discussion pertaining to monetary and banking affairs—legitimate business would feel secure under his administration. "He is the greatest living authority on the world's waterways—he stood for a thorough, efficient system of waterway improvement, but he fought political log-rolling and pork-barrel extravagance. "In obedience to the command of a united party in our State and voicing the unanimous sentiment of her delegation, I present for your consideration Ohio's choice for the presidency, that scholar, leader, statesman, that citizen of the world—who cannot fail, I nominate for the office of President of the United States, Theodore E. Burton."

OPTOMETRISTS END CONVENTION

Members Banquet at Planters and One Marries Afterwards.

The sixteenth annual convention of the Missouri Optometric Association came to a close last night with a banquet held at the Planters Hotel. Members of the association, learning that W. L. McCausland of 5603 Maple avenue, one of their number, was to marry, tried to persuade him to have the ceremony performed as a part of the cabaret for the banquet. McCausland declined, but was married immediately after the banquet to Miss Ruth B. Miller of Columbia, Mo. The wedding was held quietly.

The officers elected at the closing session of the convention are: H. H. Watts, Kansas City, president; W. A. Vawter, Marshall, vice-president; Otto Bachman, St. Louis, financial secretary; Oliver Abel, St. Louis, corresponding secretary; E. Egbert, St. Louis, treasurer; C. R. Schenkmyer, St. Louis; F. D. Armond, Sedalia; J. A. Mott, Kansas City, and F. J. Guilbault, St. Louis, were elected to serve on the Executive Committee.

Mayor Freed of Bribe Charge.
TOLSON, D. C., June 9.—Former Mayor Carl Keller, charged with bribery in connection with the purchase of fire apparatus for the city, was found not guilty by a jury here yesterday afternoon. It was his second trial, the first having resulted in jury disagreement.

2,000,000 MEN NEEDED IF ALLIES ATTACK BULGARS

Terrain Difficulties Can Be Overcome Only by Big Force, Is Belief.

With Addition of 100,000 Servians, Entente Army Still Would Be Under 500,000.

By Associated Press.
SOFIA, May 15.—In military quarters at the Macedonian front and in political circles here the opinion is expressed to the Associated Press correspondent that while an offensive move on the part of the entente forces at Saloniki is not out of the question, such a maneuver would be devoid of all prospects of success if undertaken with fewer than 50 army corps, or about 2,000,000 men. Thus far the entente allies have brought to Saloniki about 350,000 effectives. With the addition of 100,000 Servians the entente contingent would still be below 500,000 men, a force considered here as being entirely inadequate to undertake the rehabilitation of Servia.

The terrain difficulties which the entente troops would be obliged to overcome are regarded as enormous. In all cases the entente troops would have to fight uphill. One or two admittedly weak points in the Bulgaro-Austro-German line are amply covered by stronger positions immediately in the rear, it is stated to the correspondent, so that falling-back would be an entirely strategic affair.

The Macedonian defense line runs in the main as follows: In the East it has the Cengel Dagh as its extreme point of support. These mountains are from 4500 to 4800 feet high, rugged and precipitous towards the south, the direction of attack. Then comes the very narrow valley of the Struma, the defense of which can be carried out from the foothills of Belashitsa Planina. West of this valley lies the mountain chain named, a single high crest some 40 kilometers long, running due west. South of the range in question lies the valley and lake of Doiran, and slightly to the northwest of the Doiran and Vardar valleys the Blagusha Planina, in which the Anglo-French troops were defeated in the battle of Kosturina, in November, 1915.

Would Need Railroad.
The remainder of the line consists of the Pajjah, Maritsanska, Blatec, Nidsho, Dobropolje Planinas and their connecting crests. Then comes the valley of the Karasu River, southeast of Monastir, a terrain which so far has not interested the entente troops very much. The Shkurgor Mountains and Malo and Prespa Lakes adjoin the very difficult mountain country of Southeastern Albania.

Feasible lines of advance on the entente troops lie at Kukush, in Greece, 35 kilometers from Lake Doiran. From there it sweeps in an arc towards the Vardar valley, where at the closest point of contact the lines of the two opposing forces are still 300 yards from one another. This peculiar line of the entente troops was established to prevent a surprise by the Bulgaro-Germans. In some quarters the view is held that it was dictated by a concentration rearward, due to the transfer to France of considerable French forces.

Since the country between Kukush and the Bulgaro-German front is open, the entente troops would have little difficulty advancing to the opponent's lines. The situation has permitted the establishment of a line of entrenchments by the Bulgaro-Germans that may be said to have its equal only in the Western theater of war.

Greeks May Act.
In reviewing the chances of the entente troops to drive the Bulgaro-Austro-Germans out of Macedonia and Servia, Bulgarian and Macedonian officers argue that what 400,000 Servian troops could not do on the defensive cannot be undertaken by the entente troops on the offensive unless an army of 2,000,000 is employed.

The Servian army, despite its numbers and heroic conduct, failed to prevent Serbia falling entirely into the hands of the central armies. This was due in part to the great flank attack executed by the Bulgarians, which endangered the Servian army constantly. Entente forces advancing north would have to count with the same handicap.

Opinion is expressed here that the central group of belligerents must ultimately clear Saloniki of its foreign garrison, either with or without the consent of Greece. Since Greece realizes that her Macedonian possessions will be placed in jeopardy if the central power troops elect the entente forces from Saloniki and its hinterland, it is easily conceivable, according to well-informed circles here, that the closing chapter of the Balkan operations will contain the fact that the Greek troops assisted in removing the Anglo-French forces from Saloniki.

6000 Longshoremen Win Strike.
SAN FRANCISCO, June 9.—The strike of the Pacific Coast Longshoremen is ended. Approximately 6000 men who walked out June 1 for higher wages and a closed shop policy, thus tying up shipping on the coast returned to work today, all their demands having been granted at a thirteen-hour conference that ended shortly before dawn today.

MAN SUES JOHN H. VETTE AND F. H. ALEWEL TO RECOVER $300

E. J. Wade Says He Has Paid Money Lenders That Amounts In Excess Interest Rates.

E. J. Wade, a carpenter, living at 4461 Ashland avenue, brought suit today in Circuit Court against John H. Vette and Frank H. Alewel, money lenders, to obtain from them $300 which he says he has paid in interest in excess of the legal rates on $400, which he borrowed from them in 1910. Wade claims that Vette and Alewel compelled him to write out a note for $400, which included the 8 per cent interest on the note, but Wade says that he only received the $400. Vette claims that Wade still owes them $48 on the principal and interest and they have brought suit against Wade to force the foreclosure of the note, as Wade put up his furniture as chattel.

GIRL'S FATHER TO TAKE STAND TODAY AT ORPET TRIAL

Will Tell About Finding Daughter's Body and Events Leading to Couple's Meeting.

LOVE LETTERS IN EVIDENCE

Notes Full of Endearing Terms Turned Over to Defense by Court's Order.

WAUKEGAN, Ill., June 8.—The trial of Will Orpet, University of Wisconsin student, charged with the murder of Marion Lambert, his former sweetheart, will move to one of its most compelling climaxes today, when Frank Lambert, father of the dead girl, is called to the stand as a witness for the State. Lambert's story, which is expected to last for several hours, will tell of the finding of the girl's body in the snow in Helm's woods last February and of the events leading up to the meeting of Orpet and Marion in the woods that day. It will be followed on the stand, it is understood, by William Marshall of Lake Forest, who was with Lambert when the girl's body was found.

But two witnesses were called to the stand yesterday by the State after the closing of Attorney David R. Joslyn's opening statement for the prosecution. They were J. B. Ford, a civil engineer, who explained the territory surrounding the scene of the tragedy, with the aid of a plat of the woods which he drew, and Walter McGuire, Chief of Police of Lake Forest, who described the finding of the girl's body in the snow and of the tracing of the footprints which the State says Orpet made as he wandered about the woods.

All witnesses in the case were excluded from the courtroom yesterday with the exception of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lambert, parents of the dead girl, and Mr. and Mrs. E. O. Orpet, parents of the defendant.

Letters Written by Orpet to Girl. The State yesterday turned over to the defense for examination 44 letters in its possession which Orpet wrote to Miss Lambert. This was in accordance with a ruling by Judge Donnelly on a motion made earlier in the trial and upon which he reserved decision. Following are some of the letters:

On April 8, 1915, Orpet wrote: "This is to tell you that, at the present time, I still love you, and I am dying, literally, to hear from you. I have just read over all your old letters and couldn't help writing to you again. I am afraid you'll forget all about me down there, and that would be the finish of yours truly. I want to see you, dearest, and want you badly. If I could only get my arm around you now, and get up close to you and kiss the life out of you, I would be happy."

"Well, Marion, my darling, how are you anyway, since I left you in tears? Now, I suppose, you're having a devil of a time on your vacation, and, believe me, I wish I could be there with you."

Next day he wrote: "You can see by this I'm always thinking of you and wishing that you were up here with me, for we could have some time."

"It's hard to settle down to business again, dear, and to have nothing but two months' waiting to look forward to. I wish you could realize how much I feel, dearest, for it is awfully hard to have to keep it to yourself, and particularly know you're the only one of the two that feels that way. Dearest, if I thought that you loved me, I believe I'd go nuts with happiness, but I'm sorry to say I don't think there's much hope of it. Well, I hope you are the same angelical little girl that I left behind me."

On April 13 he wrote: "Dearest Marion: It is now five days since I have heard from you, and I'm about nuts. I've been expecting one from you every day, and it's no joke. "Has Eleanor said anything to you yet about my kissing you down at Sacred Heart? If she says anything more, just tell her that I'll kiss her when I come home again; that will probably keep her quiet. I would like to kiss you right now—the more so since I can't."

"In the one letter you have written me you did not use the superlative of 'dear,' as you said you would, and you may consider yourself hereby bawled out. From now on you will use it as you faithfully said you would, and if you don't I will be terribly disappointed."

Wants to Kiss Big One Girl. On April 17 he wrote: "Just got your letter, and have got love sickness so bad I can hardly stand it here. Every letter I get from you makes it worse."

"You said that the honorable Miss Deuble said she would like to see me kiss her. What does she mean? I'm afraid I've got myself in bad, for I certainly don't want to kiss her. There's only one girl in the world that I want to kiss, and that's you."

"I wish I could have been with you Thursday. I think you wouldn't have been lonesome. I think we could make things rather lively, couldn't we?" "And, dearest, you said that the next time I came home you were going to be as good as gold. Get that out of your head. It is all right to do as we did the night before I came back."

One May 28 he wrote:

"My Dear—Only two and a half weeks more of school. I wish you were here, dearest. Just now I'd give anything to kiss you—a good, long one, and, believe me, that's the first thing I'm going to do when I see you, so don't forget to come across yourself when that time comes."

"You said in your last letter that you thought of me quite a little. I hardly believe it, knowing you as I do, but I can't get you out of my head. That's the honest truth. Keep on being good, dear. I'm hoping and praying that you will keep yourself for me, for you are mine, aren't you, dear?"

On June 5 he wrote:

"I'm sorry you're getting tired of being good, dear, but please keep it up, dear, as I want you all for myself."

This on Nov. 13, 1915:

"Dear Marion—Your letter came a few days ago, but I couldn't answer before as I was rather sore at you. What you wrote, and possibly what you thought, was all rot, pure rot. Just remember that you're all wrong and that if you don't change your opinion you'll be making the biggest mistake of your life."

Declarations Gradually Cool. The impassioned declarations of love grow gradually cold, until the time that the girl informed Orpet of the condition she believed herself to be in. On Dec. 3, 1915, he wrote:

"Dear Marion—I'm sorry I haven't been able to write before, but ever since I got back I've been trying to catch up with back work, and it's not over with yet, either."

"I hope you got that stuff all right—let it Monday—and let me know how it comes out. This will have to be only a short letter, as it's pretty late now and I've got an 8 o'clock Saturday."

FORD PEACE PARTY MEMBER GETS $10,000 A YEAR ALIMONY

Mrs. L. M. Lloyd Also Awarded Custody of Children With Divorce From Millionaire Socialist.

CHICAGO, June 8.—Mrs. Lola Maverick Lloyd, wife of William Brock Lloyd, millionaire Socialist, received a divorce yesterday on the ground of infidelity. She was a member of the Ford peace expedition to Europe.

The decree gave her the custody of their five children and $10,000 a year. Lloyd did not contest the action.

Atkinson-Ford-Governor Club. An Atkinson-Ford-Governor club has been formed in St. Louis, with headquarters at 639 Olive street. E. P. Lamphun, president of the Millon Population Club, is the president, and J. L. Baggett secretary.

1916 DIRECTORY INDICATES 874,855 POPULATION HERE

Estimated Increase of 31,673 Over 1915 and of 21,460 Over 1914.

A substantial increase in the population of St. Louis, as compared not only with a year ago, but with two years ago, is indicated by the 1916 city directory, which was issued last evening by the Gould Directory Co.

On the basis of 2 1/2 inhabitants to a directory name, which the Gould company formerly used in its annual estimate of the city's population, the new directory indicates a population of 874,855 for St. Louis, as compared with 843,182 from last year's directory, and 853,395 from the 1914 directory. The last was the directory company's published estimate of the city's population in 1914.

Last year, because of the decrease in the number of names, the directory company ceased to print its estimate of population. As the size of type, and the space for names on a page, have remained the same throughout the three years, a Post-Dispatch reporter was enabled to figure out the comparison, on the basis of the 1914 figures.

82 Pages Added. In 1914 the list of names filled 2209 pages of the directory, and the publishers' preface showed a total of 341,355 names, or 154 1/2 to a page. Last year the number of pages of names was 2183, a falling off of 26 pages, or of 4017 names, from 1914. This year the names fill 2286 pages, indicating a total of 341,355 names, or 154 1/2 to a page. Last year the number of pages of names was 2183, a falling off of 26 pages, or of 4017 names, from 1914. This year the names fill 2286 pages, indicating a total of 341,355 names, or 154 1/2 to a page.

The increase over last year is 82 pages, or 12,689 names, and over 1914 the increase is 56 pages, or 8552 names. On the basis of 2 1/2 inhabitants to a directory name, an increase in population of 31,673 over 1915, and 21,460 over 1914, is indicated.

The 1916 census gave St. Louis a population of 687,029. The directory estimates of population have proven, in census years, to be somewhat higher than the Government figures, the reason being that the directory lists many persons who have their business connections in St. Louis, but who reside in St. Louis County or on the East Side.

The new directory was delayed a month in its issuance by the changes made, since the first of the year, in the house numbers of many West End streets. This made a re canvass of part of the city necessary. It has been customary, in past years, to issue the directory in the first week of May.

The book has a light green cover. It has 2888 pages, 105 more than last year. Dedicating the 82 additional pages for the list of names this shows an increase of 32 pages in classified lists over last year.

Gain in Movie Shows. In a presidential year St. Louis is shown to have only 20 political organizations, including the Chinese Republic Association, the Municipal Voters' League and the St. Louis Single Tax League. Only six ward Democratic clubs and four ward Republican clubs are considered of enough importance to be included in the list.

St. Louis has gained 18 moving picture theaters since last year. The new directory's classified list shows 183 of these places of entertainment, as compared with 140 in 1915.

Ten more civic organizations are listed than last year. The new ones are the Buder Memorial Square Association, Carondelet Heights Improvement Association, Catholic Women's Association, Citizens' City Plan Committee, Citizens' Emergency Relief Association, Clifton Heights Improvement Association, Fire Prevention Club, Foundry Employees' Housing Conference, Missouri Good Roads Society, Missouri Referendum League, Oak Hill Business Men's Improvement Association, South Central Improvement Association and Town Club. A few of last year's organizations do not appear.

$550 GIVEN FOR ACADEMY

Ursuline Mother Superior Receives Money at Luncheon.

At a luncheon at the Ursuline Academy yesterday, the mother superior was surprised with a gift of $550 from the alumni of the school, to be used in the construction of the new academy at St. Angela's Park, Oakland, St. Louis County. Mrs. August Goessling presented the gift.

About 60 alumnae, including the two graduates, Misses Margaret and Gertrude Woods, were at the luncheon. Three officers of the Acadia Alumnae, Mrs. George Mathieu, Mrs. R. A. Davis and Miss Josephine Bristow, were present.

Pinkett and Wife Expelled. LONDON, June 8.—Count and Countess Pinkett, who were arrested early last month shortly after the suppression of the Irish rebellion, were released from custody last Wednesday and ordered to leave Dublin by next Saturday, according to a Central News dispatch from Dublin yesterday.

807 in Theft Reported. Among the larcenies reported last night were the theft of jewelry valued at $40 and $2 in cash from the home of Charles Rule, 4319 Delor street; trinkets valued at $30 from the home of William Ohemus, 8386 Church road, and clothing valued at $25 from the home of Mrs. Willis Whitfield, 3206 Pine street.

LAWYER WANTS $10,000 FOR WORK FOR BELL OIL CO.

W. L. Bohnenkamp Tells Referee Claim Against Defunct Concern Covers 6-Year Period.

After hearing testimony of officers of the Bell Oil Co., 115 Ferry street, now in the hands of a receiver, Referee Coles allowed the filing of an offer of compromise yesterday afternoon and set June 16 as a day for the company to show the acceptance of the offer by a majority of creditors.

The offer provides for the payment of creditors in full by giving 6 per cent notes that fall due semi-annually over a period of five and one-half years. The notes are to reduce the obligation by 10 per cent semi-annually, the first to fall due Jan. 1, 1916. The company has listed liabilities of $123,973.21 and assets of $114,444.07. Prior to the appointment of a receiver the company was conducted by a committee appointed by creditors.

Much time was spent by the Referee interrogating officers and William L. Bohnenkamp, counsel for the company, about an item of $10,000 found in the list of the company's liabilities, which was due to Bohnenkamp for legal services. The debt was acknowledged by a resolution of the board of directors of the company on March 18, 1915, the day after the company went into bankruptcy.

Referee Coles indicated that the proceeding was rather unusual, as it was testified that Bohnenkamp had had an option with the company to take $10,000 of the company's stock in payment for his service, and the action of the board, he said, affected the creditors considerably, as it materially reduced the amount creditors would receive by Bohnenkamp electing to be creditor rather than stockholder. Bohnenkamp was asked why it was that he had not tried before to get this money, which was for services over a period of six years. He said it was a running account; that it was understood that the work he had done was of great value to the company, but that as he was aiding the company in a financial way he had never pressed the claim. He said when he found, however, that the company was going into the hands of a receiver he wished to have his claim included with other creditors.

NINE GRADUATED FROM LORETTO WESTCOTT WORKING ON SPEECH

Archbishop Glennon is Principal Orator at Commencement. Archbishops Glennon and Cardinal Gibbons gave the principal address at the commencement exercises of the Loretto Academy, 2407 Lafayette avenue, yesterday. He warned the girl graduates about progressing too far in their "social and uplift work," saying that some women had gone so far that they were to be found "anywhere but in their own homes."

Miss Helen Burke was the valedictorian, the other graduates being as follows: Misses Adele Baumgartner, Alice Ursula Betz, Agnes Loyola Eagan, Frances Kaletta, Gladys Mary Rupert, Julia Loretto Hannigan, Marjorie Mary Quigley, Norma Marie Klange and Rosa Elizabeth Templeman.

Preparing Address to Nominating Wilson in St. Louis. CAPE MAY, N. J., June 8.—Attorney General W. J. Westcott of New Jersey who has been selected by President Wilson to place him in nomination at the St. Louis convention next week, is here at his summer cottage preparing his nominating speech. It is believed that the speech will be on very different lines than that delivered by nominating Wilson at Baltimore four years ago. As soon as the St. Louis convention is over Westcott will begin his active canvass to wrest from United States Senator James E. Martin the Democratic nomination for that office in the September primaries.

PARIS, June 9.—The Germans have launched a general attack along the entire front on the right (east) bank of the Meuse and penetrated the French line at one point, but were repulsed elsewhere with heavy loss, according to an official statement issued by the War Office today.

The point where the Germans entered the French line is in the neighborhood of Thiaumont farm.
The Germans also made two small attacks southwest of Hill 204, but these attacks, the statement says were repulsed.

6900 CANADIANS
KILLED IS LAST

Fresh Men.

OTTAWA, June 9.—Upward of six thousand Canadians have fallen in a week in the desperate fighting in and around Sanctuary Woods, in the Ypres section, according to a statement made by Major-General Sir Samuel Hughes, Minister of Militia, in presenting colors to a Canadian regiment on Parliament Hill yesterday.

Lance Corporal Alexander C. Tomory of Denver was one of those killed in action.

Some details of the fighting came through. Gen. Hughes received a cable message stating that Capt. Nivins, the only officer left of Princess Patricia's regiment, again had distinguished himself by returning to the front twice after receiving wounds. Chaplain Wilkes, according to the message, carried a rifle into the fight. He used it as long as he could and then wielded a bayonet until the encounter became too close for either, when he went down using his fists.
Col. Butler, commander of the Princecess "Pat's," was killed. Col. Far-quhar, who preceded him, was killed at the head of the regiment a year ago.

The regiment has been shot to pieces three times and now is back from the front waiting for men to fill the gaps that it may return to the fighting line.

Thus far 334,200 Canadians have been enlisted for overseas service.

RUSSIANS TAKE 3899 PRISONERS,
TOTAL IS 65,000

List Includes 185 Officers Captured in New Offensive Against the Austrians.

LONDON, June 9.—A Reuters dispatch from Petrograd today reports the continuation of the Russian successes in Volhynia and Galicia. The capture of an additional 185 officers and 13,714 men is announced. This brings the total number of prisoners so far reported taken by the Russians in their present offensive, which began Sunday, to 65,000.

Information has reached the Russian Embassy in Rome that the Austrian front has been completely broken along a length of 94 miles to a depth of 374 miles according to a Central News dispatch today from the Italian capital.

The Russian advance, according to these advices, now threaten to envelop the entire Austrian army in the region affected. The Austrians finding themselves attacked from both the east and north, Austrian Slav regiments are declared to have been seized with panic during the first attacks by the Russians and to have surrendered without any real resistance.

It is known that the Russians are closely pressing their advantage against the Austrians following their recapture of Lutsk, one of the triangle of Russian forts in Volhynia. Not only have they gained the banks of the Ikwa and Strypa rivers, but have crossed the streams and continued their offensive against their foes.

In the region of Kovel, midway between Lutsk and Brest-Litovsk and in the vicinity of Rovno, southeast of the fortress, the Russians have begun actions.

Likewise in Galicia there has been no let up in the Russian attacks and along the lower reaches of the Strypa River heavily fortified positions have been taken.

The official Petrograd statement announcing the fall of Lutsk tells of the capture, in addition to 40,000 prisoners previously taken, of 53 officers and about 11,000 men and of a num-

Fred D. Gardner's Firm Said to Have Sent Out Bootlegger's Cane in Coffins

Anti-Saloon League Gives Out Information on Which It Is Fighting Candidate for Governor.

The Anti-Saloon League which is making a political fight on Col. Fred D.
Gardner as a candidate for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination has just begun to circulate the first evidence to support its widely circulated charge that Col. Gardner's concern, the St.
Louis Coffin Co. shipped whisky in coffins to its customers in "dry" territory.

The league has been attacking Gardner because he has refused to promise that if elected governor he will sign a state prohibition law if such a measure should be passed, containing an emergency "peace, health or safety" clause which would have the effect of preventing the voters from submitting the proposition to a referendum vote. The league has not made public the replies of any other gubernatorial candidate to this question.

It is now made public by the Rev.
Elmer T. Clark, pastor of the Shaw avenue Methodist church, that the "booby in coffin" charge is based on information that The Lansdown Mercantile Co., of Centertown, Mo. found a so-called "boot-legger's cane" in a coffin shipped to it several years ago and at other times, equally remote, found bottles of whisky in shipments of coffins from the St. Louis Coffin Co. anderson of Dr. Clark in Kansas City obtained this "evidence" and sent the cane to St. Louis.

The cane is a straight walking stick made of compressed paper. It has a round metal top on which are embossed ber of guns and machine guns, a quantity of other weapons, field kitchens and telephone material.

Allies Prohibit Any Export of Coal to Greece.

LONDON, June 9.—Exports of coal to Greece have been prohibited. This probably is in line with announcements that the entente allies were considering restrictive measures against Greek commerce "to prevent supplies reaching the enemy."

The editorials in the London morning papers are largely taken up by the question in Greece. The leaders unanimously express relief that the entente at last has decided to take strong measures to end the anomalous situation in Greece. Although it is not known what demands have been made upon Greece, the Daily Telegraph and other morning papers express the hope that it is not short of the demobilization of the Greek army.

A dispatch from Athens announced that the Greek Cabinet has decided to publish immediately a demobilization decree, disbanding the 12 senior military classes.

12 MEN FROM KITCHENER'S CRUISER WASHED ASHORE

Warrent Officers and Eleven Others Were on Boat, Admiralty Statement Says—Gives No Details.

LONDON, June 9.—Hope for some clearing of the mystery surrounding the death of Lord Kitchener and the loss of the cruiser Hampshire was revived last night when the Admiralty announced that 12 men from the lost cruiser had been washed ashore on a raft. They are a warrant officer and 11 enlisted men. No details have been given.

A dispatch from Thurso, Scotland, the most northerly port opposite the Orkneys, says that several bodies from the Hampshire have been washed ashore, among them that of Lieutenant Colonel O. A. Fitzgibbon, Lord Kitch-ener's private secretary. The Hampshire, it is now known, sank in deep water, two miles off shore, on the west coast of the Orkneys, between Marwick Head and the Brough of Birsay.

EQUAL RIGHTS FOR TAXICABS

All May Solicit in Streets Near Union Station in Future.

Associate City Counselor Young yesterday ruled that all taxicab owners having permits from the Board of Public Service might solicit business on the streets bordering Union Station. or several years the Terminal Railroad Association has leased to different taxicab companies the exclusive right to use the Station concourse on the Market street side as a taxicab headquarters. The concourse is on the Ter-minal's private property. Officials of the Terminal denied that they had refused to allow other taxicabs to solicit business from the regular street entrances.

The Post-Dispatch is the only evening newspaper in St. Louis that receives or publishes news gathered by the Associated Press.

the words: "St. Louis Coffin Co. F. D.
Gardner."

Close inspection of the cane shows it is hollow and made in three parts. When the metal top is unscrewed and removed a very small "pony" glass is revealed in a depression in the second section. The glass can be lifted out.

Exploring the cane further it is found that the second section also unscrews and then the true inwardness of the walking stick is disclosed. It is hollow and will hold about a quarter of a pint of whisky or any other liquid.

The charge made by the Anti-Saloon League was that Gardner's coffin company had shipped intoxicants to dry territory in coffins. Investigation by a Post-Dispatch reporter yesterday showed that Centertown is not legally dry territory. It has never voted itself dry, but the sentiment there is such that no applicant for a saloon license has ever been able to obtain the necessary number of signatures to his petition.

The reporter interviewed Bailey V.
Lansdown and his partner Jack Bowlin, manager of the undertaking department. Both said that at various times
"several years ago" the Lansdown company had found bottles of "liquor" in coffins shipped to it by the St. Louis

Coffin Co. and that the cane, filled with "liquor" was found in one of these shipments.

Lansdown said he and Bowlin were not drinking men and did not sample the "liquor." "We just poured it out," he said. "It looked to me like whisky."

Lansdown could not even approximate the time when the cane was received. He said it was several years ago. After he had told a salesman for the coffin company that he did not care to receive liquor with coffins, no more was sent to him, he said.

The Anti-Saloon League has a letter from Bowlin which says he frequently found bottles of whisky in coffins shipped to his concern at Centertown, but it does not mention the cane.

Gardner is out of town and it was impossible to locate him today. At the office of the St. Louis Coffin Co. one of those in charge of the business, who said he did not care to be quoted in Gardner's absence, told a Post-Dispatch reporter there was no disposition to deny that years ago canes of the kind now in possession of the Anti-Saloon League were sent to customers.

"I have been given to understand that these canes were sent out at least twenty years ago," he said.

SUPERINTENDENT QUITS, CRITICISES FREE BRIDGE WORK

D. A. Sheedy Tells of Friction With W. F. Collar and Assistant, N. R. Graham.

D. A. Sheedy, superintendent of steel erection on the municipal free bridge, who sent his resignation Monday to Clinton H. Fisk, said today that his action was caused by constant friction with W. F. Collar, superintendent of construction and Nelson R. Graham, Collar's assistant, culminating in a quarrel when Sheedy refused to employ William J. Smith, son-in-law of Graham, as Collar's request, to assist another man in watching an engine. Sheedy refused to employ him because, he says, only one man was needed.

Sheedy did not know when he took the job, he says, that he was to be under Collar. The only condition on which he will return is the separation of the steel work from the concrete work and the keeping of separate expense accounts for the two departments.

Sheedy criticised Collar's work. He said that after a trestle had been erected across a slough on the east side, at a cost of $1400, it was discovered to be in the way of a pier and had to be torn down and rebuilt. He says that after a dam had been built across a slough, at a cost of $1400, so the water could be pumped out,
the pumps were found inadequate.
The dam was torn down and the water was left to drain itself when the river fell.

After a chute had been built, at a cost of $200, he says, to carry concrete material from the tracks to the mixer, more men were required to push the material down the chute than were needed to handle it in wheelbarrows and the chute was torn down.

Concrete pedestals, he says, are built haphazard instead of continuously, necessitating frequent removals of the mixer, at a cost of $50 each time. When a group of large pedestals were to be built, he says, the one nearest the mixer was built first, necessitating the hoisting of the material over it for the building of the others.

The water was drained from a depression at one time, he says, for the building of piers, but the work was not finished, and when Collar would have resumed the work the depression was again filled with water and had to be drained a second time.

Had to Hire Crane.
After a traveling crane had been erected on the approach, Sheedy says, at a cost of $20,000, which was intended to have a reach of 60 feet and lift 30 tons of steel, it was found that it would

AUTOIST QUESTIONS RIGHT OF STATE TO FIX SPEED LIMIT

Anderson Gratz Contends in Court It Should Depend on Skill of Driver.

The legality of the State law which says anyone driving an automobile at more than 25 miles an hour may be charged with reckless and careless driving was questioned in the Circuit Court at Clayton today by Anderson Gratz of Kirkwood, vice president of the American Manufacturing Co.
Gratz had been convicted and fined $25 and had appealed from a justice court.
After today's hearing Judge McElhinney took the case under advisement.

Not denying that he ran his automobile 25 miles an hour on the Ladue road near the Country Club, May 18, 1915, Gratz made the defense that no arbitrary speed maximum should be established by law. The only limitation, he contended, should be the skill and known carefulness of the driver.

Gratz testified that he had been driving automobiles since they came into general use and is the owner of six machines. His attorney, Davis Biggs, described Gratz as "sober, careful and considerate," and said he was such a man as might safely be permitted to drive a car at high speed.

The State held that, no matter how careful a driver might be, a defect in the mechanism of his car or a hole in the road might cause an accident when he was driving fast.

Arthur Madden, the Deputy Sheriff who made the arrest, testified that within half a mile Gratz passed a touring car, a boy leading three polo ponies, a horse and buggy and a truck.

Gratz's attorney turned this testimony to his client's account by saying that as Gratz passed all these without hurting anybody, it showed he was driving carefully, despite his high speed.

Some of the men who have been working under Sheedy say they will not stay on the job if they have to work directly under Collar.

ATTACK PLANNED ON VALIDITY OF COUNTY ROAD BOND

Thomas K. Skinner to Intervene in Friendly Suit; May Hold Up Work 3 Years.

Thomas K. Skinner, lawyer and wealthy resident of Clayton, announced to a Post-Dispatch reporter today that he intended to take an active part in the "friendly suit" to be filed in the State Supreme Court, probably next Monday, for the purpose of settling certain legal questions connected with the $3,000,000 good roads bond issue, authorized by a majority of the voters of St.
Louis County at a special election Feb.

Skinner, who was an opponent of the bond issue, said he would carry the suit beyond the point intended by the county authorities, and would attack the validity of the bonds, carrying the matter to the United States Supreme Court if necessary. His entry into the case will make the suit an unfriendly one,

and he said it might result in a delay of three or four years, before the bonds can be issued and the work of road building begun.

Planned Friendly Suit.
Prosecuting Attorney Ralph, who has been adviser of the County Court in the bond issue matter, announced the plans for the "friendly suit" in an interview in yesterday's Post-Dispatch, following a preliminary announcement three weeks ago. He said the validity of the bonds would not be attacked in the suit, but that he would seek to get the Supreme Court to declare the denominations in which the bonds must be issued and their duration. He believes they will bring a better return if they are sold in large denominations and for a long period.

The question whether the bonds are to be exempt from taxation may not be raised, Ralph said. The statute of 1909, authorizing county improvement bond issues, says such bonds shall not be taxable, but the State Constitution, in listing exemptions from taxation, does not include such bonds. Ralph held that this makes the bonds taxable, but does not affect the validity of the issue.

But Skinner declared today that this conflict, admitted by Ralph, between the statute of 1909 and the Constitution, renders the whole statute unconstitutional, and that bonds issued under authority of the statute would be invalid.

The St. Louis County bond issue is the first one voted under the authority of this statute.

Another reason advanced by Skinner for believing the bonds would be invalid is that, as he alleges, incorporated towns do not share in the benefits of the bond issue, though the taxpayers of those towns must pay their share of the taxes. This, in his opinion, is contrary to both the State and United States Constitutions.

Will Hasten Decision.
Skinner said that, if the "friendly suit" had not been planned by Ralph, he had intended to test the validity of the bonds. He would have done this, he said, by waiting until a tax bill was sent him, including an item for interest on the bonds, and he would then have refused to pay this part of his taxes, and would have resisted a suit by attacking the validity of the bonds. He thinks it much better that the question be decided before the bonds are placed on the market, even if a delay of several years should result. As a lawyer, he has made a study of statutes pertaining to bond issues.

Judge McElhinney of the Clayton Circuit Court, when told of Skinner's announced intention, remarked, "Well, Mr.

Skinner is an authority on bonds." He would express no further opinion.
Skinner said he opposed a bond issue extending the payments for new roads over a 20-year period, because, in his opinion, the roads would last not more than 10 years. He favored a special road tax, to provide an annual income of $400,000, and a pay-as-you-go plan of road building.

Starting Over Again

The story of a man who wiped out the past and became the most righteous man in his community.

By Frances Elizabeth Lanyon.

ROBERT DALE—"Old Trusty," the prison officials called him—"the thief catcher," he was designated by the convicts under his charge, went his usual rounds at midnight to make an amazing discovery.

He was called Old Trusty because he never relaxed in his duty as guardian of the men in his special custody. He was designated the thief catcher because once a convict made away before his time was up, Dale hunted him to the ends of the earth, but he found him and brought him back to prison.

Now Dale halted, caught at a loose iron door, flashed his lantern within, and uttered a muffled word:

"Done!"

Then he blew the signal for the guard, meanwhile exploring the interior of the cell. By the time the guards had appeared he was out in the corridor again.

"You all know him. He can't have got far. For I OK'd him on the 11 o'clock round. After him!"

Then, the guard dispersing, he traced what had been done. A door had swung through, the a knotted rope made out of torn strips of sheets led down from a window—and freedom!

More the amazed was Robert Dale because No. 212 was a model prisoner and had been since he came to the prison two years before. Dale went to the record book to revive his memory. One of its pages related the history of No. 212.

EDWARD WAREHAM was his name—a clerk in a big city bond house. He had embezzled some hundreds of dollars to invest in a rising stock. There had come a slump. He had lost and confessed. He had been given a sentence of five years. There were no antecedents. The young man apparently had no living relatives. He had come from the country to fall a victim to the temptations of the city.

The chaplain had taken a marked fancy to the ingenuous-faced, well-behaved prisoner. Wareham was always attentive to his exhortations. His fellow inmates sneered at his "conversion," yet they all recognized the gentle, accommodating ways, and when he was set at work in the hospital he was the favorite nurse.

"He won't go back to the city," growled Dale. "Beyond that we know nothing concerning him. It will be a hard chase, but I will get him."

These were prophetic words, but their fulfillment was a long way ahead. The guards found no trace of the fugitive. Through the best part of a year Dale made many a journey to try to find the only escaped convict he had not seen. It was of no avail and the champion thief catcher was nettled and chagrined.

His promotion to under turnkey somewhat mollified his disappointment. Then, too, he had one soft spot in his heart. Many a mile away, visited only occasionally through the years, but cherished, idolized, his stepdaughter lived a quiet, happy life in a peaceful haven where he had bestowed her. She had been like a real daughter to his dead wife—the only golden thread in the warp and woof of his stern life.

He Lands a Job.

It was almost a year to the day after his escape that Eldred Wareham, pursuing a country road, paused before a typical corner tavern. Twelve months had greatly changed his appearance. He had become an aimless wanderer. He was footsore and penniless. He entered the place to find its proprietor half asleep in his chair.

"I just want to rest for a few minutes," was his plea, and the man nodded assent, for he was glad of company. The evening breeze blew in, and the casual visitor seemed to impress him. After a few moments of desultory study of Wareham he spoke out:

"You are doubly right," was the blunt admission.

"I like your appearance and maybe I can offer you something," proceeded the tavern keeper. "Here's a queer case! About a week ago a likely young fellow came along on a farmer's wagon. He got off to get a drink. The more he got the more he wanted. He wouldn't go on to his destination, wherever that might be. He's now down with the horrors in his room upstairs. We called a doctor, but he says the young fellow must have had a terrible life, for he don't think he'll ever get up again. He had a pocket full of money, but no paper telling who he was. Will you nurse him for good pay?"

"I'll be glad to do it for nothing," said Wareham eagerly.

A Sad Story.

NEVER was there a better nurse, but the ministrations of Wareham proved of no avail. The patient took a great liking to Wareham. They became as brothers, and he told him the story of his life.

He had been a reckless, riotous fellow from boyhood. He was an orphan and brought up by a high-church dignitary in England. The love of drink seemed born in him, he became a confirmed dipsomaniac and finally his uncle had cast him off. He told him he never wished to see him again, and as a last chance he gave Alan Moore a letter to an old friend, an aged clergyman, in America. If he behaved himself this man might look after him. Moore was provided with money. He had fallen by the wayside and was now dying.

"I am not going to live," he declared; "bury me without a name."

Eldred Wareham was strangely drawn to his patient. He told his own story. He drew them closer together. When Moore died Wareham saw to it that he was decently buried. Moore had told the

It was two years later when Robert Dale left his prison duties for the first vacation of years. He was in fine fettle. He was about to see the stepdaughter he loved and whom he had not seen for nearly three years. He carried in his pocket a notification that on the first of the coming month he was to be promoted to the highest office at the prison at an excellent salary.

The Past Is Forgotten.

DALE arrived at Hopston to be greeted joyously by Mary Dale.

It was the third day after his coming that a man passed the house at whom he started with a start. Quickly he called his stepdaughter.

"Who is that man?" he almost gasped.

"That is the assistant of our old clergyman," said Mary, and she blushed furiously. "Oh, papa," she continued breathlessly, "he is the friend and helper of everyone. He came here two years ago. He does not preach, although he takes half of the visiting duties off the shoulders of our minister. He is adored by the poor and friendless, he is beloved by everyone. And oh, papa—I love him—we are engaged!"

Robert Dale made an excuse to shorten his visit. He kept out of the way of Alan Moore, whom he had recognized, as Eldred Wareham. He left the place never to return and from the next town sent for Wareham and learned his story—the story of a reformed man giving lustre and glory to the name of poor, outcast Alan Moore.

"Forget me and the past—you shall never be troubled," asserted Dale.

Then he went back to his prison duties. His first step was to refuse the promotion. His next to sturdily settle back into the rut of his inferior capacity, sacrificing to a sense of honor his own preference that two young hearts might be happy.

No Trace of the Fugitive.

EDWARD WAREHAM was his name—a clerk in a big city bond house. He had embezzled some hundreds of dollars to invest in a rising stock. There had come a slump. He had lost and confessed. He had been given a sentence of five years. There were no antecedents. The young man apparently had no living relatives. He had come from the country to fall a victim to the temptations of the city.

The chaplain had taken a marked fancy to the ingenuous-faced, well-behaved prisoner. Wareham was always attentive to his exhortations. His fellow inmates sneered at his "conversion," yet they all recognized the gentle, accommodating ways, and when he was set at work in the hospital he was the favorite nurse.

"He won't go back to the city," growled Dale. "Beyond that we know nothing concerning him. It will be a hard chase, but I will get him."

These were prophetic words, but their fulfillment was a long way ahead. The guards found no trace of the fugitive. Through the best part of a year Dale made many a journey to try to find the only escaped convict he had not seen. It was of no avail and the champion thief catcher was nettled and chagrined.

His promotion to under turnkey somewhat mollified his disappointment. Then, too, he had one soft spot in his heart. Many a mile away, visited only occasionally through the years, but cherished, idolized, his stepdaughter lived a quiet, happy life in a peaceful haven where he had bestowed her. She had been like a real daughter to his dead wife—the only golden thread in the warp and woof of his stern life.

He Lands a Job.

It was almost a year to the day after his escape that Eldred Wareham, pursuing a country road, paused before a typical corner tavern. Twelve months had greatly changed his appearance. He had become an aimless wanderer. He was footsore and penniless. He entered the place to find its proprietor half asleep in his chair.

"I just want to rest for a few minutes," was his plea, and the man nodded assent, for he was glad of company. The evening breeze blew in, and the casual visitor seemed to impress him. After a few moments of desultory study of Wareham he spoke out:

"I reckon you haven't much cash, nor a job?"

"You are doubly right," was the blunt admission.

"I like your appearance and maybe I can offer you something," proceeded the tavern keeper. "Here's a queer case! About a week ago a likely young fellow came along on a farmer's wagon. He got off to get a drink. The more he got the more he wanted. He wouldn't go on to his destination, wherever that might be. He's now down with the horrors in his room upstairs. We called a doctor, but he says the young fellow must have had a terrible life, for he don't think he'll ever get up again. He had a pocket full of money, but no paper telling who he was. Will you nurse him for good pay?"

"I'll be glad to do it for nothing," said Wareham eagerly.

A Sad Story.

NEVER was there a better nurse, but the ministrations of Wareham proved of no avail. The patient took a great liking to Wareham. They became as brothers, and he told him the story of his life.

He had been a reckless, riotous fellow from boyhood. He was an orphan and brought up by a high-church dignitary in England. The love of drink seemed born in him, he became a confirmed dipsomaniac and finally his uncle had cast him off. He told him he never wished to see him again, and as a last chance he gave Alan Moore a letter to an old friend, an aged clergyman, in America. If he behaved himself this man might look after him. Moore was provided with money. He had fallen by the wayside and was now dying.

Eldred Wareham was strangely drawn to his patient. He told his own story. He drew them closer together. When Moore died Wareham saw to it that he was decently buried. Moore had told the tavern keeper to turn over to Wareham what remained of his money. He had given to Wareham some papers he had concealed on his person.

It was two years later when Robert Dale left his prison duties for the first vacation of years. He was in fine fettle. He was about to see the stepdaughter he loved and whom he had not seen for nearly three years. He carried in his pocket a notification that on the first of the coming month he was to be promoted to the highest office at the prison at an excellent salary.

The Past Is Forgotten.

DALE arrived at Hopston to be greeted joyously by Mary Dale.

It was the third day after his coming that a man passed the house at whom he started with a start. Quickly he called his stepdaughter.

A Dainty Breakfast Negligee

Within the Portals of Home, Woman May Delight Herself in Wearing the Loofiest of Her Garments.

It is in connection with the indoor, intimate gown that a woman can put forth her most potent charm. Here she is supremely powerful. Her home is her castle, and in it she can do as she pleases, dress as she pleases, and all else pertaining to the freedom which her home gives her. Here a woman delights in wearing her most dainty and lovely garments.

Among the most dainty of them is the breakfast negligee. This should express the joyousness of the wearer's heart at the beginning of a new day, which she has found herself lucky enough to enter upon. Such suitable raiment has its psychological effect on not only one's self but the other members of the family who grace the breakfast table.

Lace, chiffon, organdy, batiste and all filmy fabrics develop the most fetching affairs, with trimmings of frills and bows and handwork. The economically inclined woman usually can find considerable of usable materials in her discarded evening gowns or passe summer frocks of sheer weaves.

The design here shown is adaptable to almost any fabric, though depicted of dotted net. A straight length of it, which might be lace flouncing, cuts the negligee from shoulder to hips, being confined at the waist line by two bands of ribbons run through a casing underneath. Tying at the front they add decorative little bows.

For sleeves a deep ruffle of the net is gathered in the armhole, but restrained from immediate rights to flare by a ribbon tied around the top of the arm to add its piquant bow trimming. Crescents of rosebuds in the scallops of the lace may be either embroidered in colors, or made of satin and chiffon, and applied on.

The ruffle which forms the lower part of the jacket chooses the ornamentation of ribbon in a line following the scalloped edge. This may be

Our National Conventions

The Story of Their Beginning and Development.

Horace Greeley and the Bolt of 1872.

AMERICAN politics in 1872 produced some preposterous conventions and candidates. Gen. Sherman, writing to his brother, John Sherman, the Republican leader, said:

"Grant, who never was a Republican, is your candidate, and Greeley, who never was a Democrat, but quite the contrary, is the Democratic candidate."

Henry M. Stanley, the explorer, meeting Dr. Livingston in the heart of Africa, gave the noted missionary the accumulated news of five years, winding up with the American politics.

"Hold on!" exclaimed Livingston. "You have told me stupendous things, and with a confiding simplicity I have swallowed them down. But there is a limit to all things, and when you tell me that Horace Greeley is become a Democratic candidate I will be hanged if I believe it."

Internal dissension developed in the Republican party during Grant's administration, resulting in a third party calling themselves Liberal Republicans. They met in Cincinnati in 1872, a revolt not unlike the Progressive split in 1912.

Many eminent men, theorists and reformers joined. Among them were Carl Schurz, Senator Lyman Trumbull of Illinois, Senator Fenton of New York, Senator Sumner of Massachusetts, and a host of newspaper editors, including Horace Greeley of the Chicago Tribune, Samuel Bowles, Springfield Republican, Murat Halstead, Cincinnati Commercial, Henry Watterson, Louisville Courier-Journal, and Horace Greeley, New York Tribune.

It was a mass meeting rather than a convention. No delegates had been elected in the regular way. A roll was made up, assigning to each state delegates equal to its congressional representation.

They struggled over a platform first, adopting unanimously a more reform proposition, chief of which was a demand for speedy removal of political disabilities of Southerners and more liberal treatment of the states lately in rebellion. But tariff reform, one of the animating causes of the movement, they sidestepped because they could not agree.

Horace Greeley was nominated for President on the sixth ballot, his principal opponent being Charles Francis Adams.

The Democrats, who had been in hopeless minority since the Civil War, met in national convention at Baltimore two months later. Thinking to play a strategic political trick on the regular Republicans, they adopted the Liberal Republican platform and nominated Greeley as their candidate.

The Republican old guard refused to be bluffed and meeting at Philadelphia, renominated President Grant and stood pat on their record.

For a time during the campaign there was indication that Greeley would win, but before election day the preposterousness of his nomination and the impossible combination of Liberal Republicans and unreconcilable Democrats became apparent.

Grant was overwhelmingly victorious at the polls. Greeley's spirit was shattered and in three weeks he died.

The production of automobiles in the United States increased 30 per cent between 1909 and 1914, according to the United States Census Bureau.

To Save Lemon Juice.

LEMONS are apt to mould or dry up if a quantity is bought at a time. The following method of saving the juice is a good one:

Squeeze and strain the juice into small bottles having no dampness inside. Have the bottles nearly full, then put a spoonful of olive oil on top, cork tightly and keep in a cool, dark place.

When the lemon juice is to be used run a piece of cotton into the bottle, which absorbs the oil, and the juice is all ready to use.

Manufacture of paper in this country consumes nearly 5,000,000 cords of wood annually.

The Bee and the Flowers

By Mrs. F. A. Walker.

ON a beautiful morning when the dew was on everything a red rose blooming in the garden remarked: "I suppose there is nothing so sweet in the world as my perfume and nothing more beautiful to behold than my bloom."

"You may be beautiful to look at and your perfume sweet, but you do not grow as tall as I do," said a hollyhock looking down on the rose bush. "I am so tall I can see over the wall, while you can only see what goes on in the garden."

"You may grow tall, hollyhock," said the sweetest bush, "but you certainly are not beautiful; now, I grew up almost to the top of this wall and my perfume is far sweeter than the rose, even though she is concealed."

"Sweetness of perfume belongs to me, I am sure, and there is no other flower in the garden that has more blossoms than I," said the Syringa bush. "I am the tallest and I think my beautiful blossoms are admired by everyone."

"When you talk about growing tall, my dear Clematis," said the big oak growing outside the garden wall, "it would be well to remember that it is to me you owe your height, for here you are growing around my trunk and into my branches, too. If it were not for me you would not be so tall, for you only reached the top of the wall until I took you up."

"What is all this fuss about?" asked Clematis.

9 AUTOS DAMAGED WHEN THE ROOF OF GARAGE CAVES IN

Only Tops of Machines Injured by Accident to Twelfth Street Building.

The tops of nine automobiles were damaged at 8:40 a. m. today, when a section of the wall and roof collapsed of the one-story public garage of the St. Louis Taxicab Co., southwest corner of Twelfth and Chestnut streets.

About 80 feet of the brick wall near the center of the building on the Chestnut street side fell out onto the sidewalk, carrying with it a portion of the roof, which buckled and fell inside the building. No one was injured.

About 40 machines were in the garage, but only a few were in that section where the cave-in occurred. J. E. Trues, superintendent of the garage, said only the tops of crushed machines were damaged and the engines were not injured.

The building is owned by the Adolphus Busch estate.

Building Commissioner McKelvey inspected the building after the collapse and found a rusted iron girder, whose condition, he said, probably would explain the cave-in.

WASHINGTON, June 9.—Exports of the United States in April were $399,000,000 and imports $217,000,000 as compared with exports in April, 1915, of $324,000,000 and imports of $180,000,000, the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce announced today.

STEAMER TO BRING 300 WOMEN TO AID IN DEMONSTRATION

4300 Feminine Suffragists and 1000 Men Expected to Participate.

The steamer Quinoy of the Streckfus line will leave St. Paul, June 10, at 8 o'clock in the morning, bound for St. Louis with a delegation of suffragists from Northern States, to participate in the "walkless" suffrage demonstration here June 14, the first day of the Democratic convention.

It is thought more than 300 suffragists will be on the boat by the time that it reaches St. Louis. The delegation which will embark at St. Paul will be supplemented along the route by parties from other cities.

Mrs. David F. Simpson of Minneapolis, president of the Hennepin County Suffrage Association, will have the Minnesota delegation in charge, and Mrs. Andrew Ueland, State president, will join the party at Davenport, Io.

At all the daylight stops on the way down the river, suffragist parties will meet the steamer, and wherever the time is available speeches will be made and suffrage literature distributed. In most of the cities where stops are made delegations are expected to join the party.

At the "recruiting station," 1008 Locust street, it was said this morning that plans for the big demonstration are progressing satisfactorily. Approximately 2000 women recruits have been obtained in the campaign for "enlistments." More than 1500 women from various points in the State and about 800 women from other States are expected to participate in the demonstration.

J. A. Goodwin, in charge of the campaign for men recruits to participate, has obtained more than 800. He is confident that the desired number, 1000, will be reached by the day of the demonstration.

Gustavus Tuckerman, 8815 Pennsylvania avenue, was the first recruit obtained this morning. Mr. Tuckerman wrote to suffrage headquarters, conveying the information that he was, "a good housebroken husband, who has been persuaded that man's place is in the home and humbly begs of the ladies, the privilege of a place in the 'Golden Lane'."

Plans have been made to keep the visiting delegates busy during their short stay here. On June 13, at 8 p. m., they will attend the motion picture production of "Wagner's Siegfrid." On June 14, the program will be opened at 10 o'clock with the "walkless parade." At 12:30 lunch will be served in the suffrage tent opposite the Coliseum. At 2:30 the Woman's Council will entertain and at 5 o'clock the delegates will be entertained at dinner at the Town Club. A big lantern-lighted suffrage demonstration on the Twelfth street plaza will close the day.

MAJ. C. W. STEWART, FORMERLY OF U. S. ARMY, KILLED IN WAR

Resigned as Lieutenant of the Fifth Cavalry and Joined a Canadian Battalion.

NEW YORK, June 8.—Maj. Charles Walter Stewart of the Tenth Canadian Infantry Battalion has been killed in Flanders, according to a dispatch received today by his uncle, Cecil P. Stewart of New York. Maj. Stewart was a member of the Society of the Cincinnati, and before the war was a First Lieutenant in the Fifth United States Cavalry. He resigned his commission to enter the Canadian army. Maj. North St. Louis Business Men to Send Delegation to Philadelphia.

The North St. Louis Business Men's Association, at its regular meeting last night voted $200 for the entertainment of the 28 Idaho and Oregon delegates to the Democratic National Convention. The meeting was addressed by William H. Bloomer, president of the Missouri Federation of Commercial Clubs, and George M. Burbach, advertising manager of the Post-Dispatch.

Burbach asked the association's support in seeking for St. Louis the 1917 convention of the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World. The business men voted to send a delegation to the 1916 convention at Philadelphia the last of this month to press the claims of St. Louis.

To End Catarrhal Deafness and Head Noises

Persons suffering from catarrhal deafness and head noises will be glad to know that this distressing affliction can usually be successfully treated at home by an internal medicine that in many instances has effected complete relief after other treatments have failed. Sufferers who could scarcely hear a watch tick tell how they have had their hearing restored to such an extent that the tick of a watch was plainly audible at seven or eight inches away from either ear. Therefore, if you know of someone who is troubled with head noises or catarrhal deafness, cut out this formula and hand it to them and they will have been the means of saving some poor sufferer from perhaps total deafness. The preparation can be prepared at home and is made as follows:

Take your drugstore 1 oz. Parmit (double strength), about 15 cents worth. Take this home and add to it 1 pint of hot water and 4 oz. of granulated sugar; stir until dissolved. Take one tablespoonful four times a day. Parmit is used in this way not only to reduce by tonic action the inflammation and swelling in the Eustachian tubes, and thus to equalize the air pressure on the drum, but to correct any excess of secretions in the middle ear and the results it gives are nearly always quite effective.

Every person who has catarrh in any form should give this relief a trial and free themselves from this distressing disease.—ADV.

SOCIETY

THE wedding yesterday of Lewis D. Dozier and Miss Elizabeth Overton, at Athens, the country home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Pope O'Fallon, the bride's parents, was one of the notable fashionable events of the season, with about 1000 guests at the ceremony and the reception and dance which followed.

The ceremony was performed at 5:30 o'clock by the Rev. Dr. John A. Rice, pastor of St. John's Methodist Episcopal Church. The bride wore white satin with draperies of tulle forming three skirts edged in silver bands and embroidered in pearls. The corsage was of tulle and rose point lace, sewn in a design of pearls. The court train was formed with three panels, one of satin on each side and a third of tulle. The bride veil was held in place with orange blossoms.

Miss Matilda Overton, the bride's sister, was the maid of honor. The bridesmaids were Misses Eleanor Dozier, Ellanore Scott, Nancy Scott and Estelle Ewing of Memphis, Tenn. Andrew Johnson was best man. The groomsmen were Stuart Stickney, Russell E. Gardner Jr., Robert A. Bagnell, John J. O'Fallon III, Thomas F. Francis and Charles Cushing of Chicago. Charles Pope O'Fallon gave away the bride, who is his stepdaughter.

The gifts were numerous. An automobile made in Italy, was the gift of Dozier to his bride. The gift of the bride's mother was a silver service of the Kirk design, the property of the Overton family.

The bride's gifts to her attendants were platinum pins set with pearls and diamonds. The best man and groomsmen received gold match boxes of elaborate design.

Following the reception and dance the bride couple departed on a tour. On their return they will reside for the summer at 621 Washington avenue.

BAD HEADACHES?

Mrs. N. Alexander, of Nianqua, Mo., writing in regard to her experience with Theodor's Black-Draught, says: "I feel it my duty to write and tell you how I have benefited by the use of Black-Draught. I have had sick headaches all my life and Black-Draught is all I ever could get to stop it... I always keep it in the house... It does all you claim and more." Why don't you try Black-Draught for your trouble? It is a purely vegetable liver medicine that, during the past 70 years, has helped many people to better health. Try it. Costs only one cent a dose. ### TIME FOR "AS YOU LIKE IT" MATINEE TOMORROW CHANGED

Will Begin at 2:15, Instead of 3 O'Clock, as Was Announced.

The time for tomorrow's matinee performance of "As You Like It," at the municipal open-air theater in Central Forest Park, has been changed. It will begin at 2:15 o'clock, instead of 3, as was previously announced.

The Pageant Drama Association also announced today that a performance would be given next Tuesday night, and that there was no question about having seating accommodations for everyone.

Last night's audience was much larger than that of the first night, and as nearly everyone carried wraps, there was little discomfort. The production, as on the opening night, impressed the audience with its beauty, and the lines of the actor were heard clearly in all parts of the outdoor auditorium. Besides the scheduled presentations of "As You Like It," which are to extend through next Tuesday night, including Sunday night, extra performances on later nights will be given if there is sufficient demand for seats.

AMERICAN AIRMEN BEAT BACK A BIG FLOCK OF GERMANS

They Rise at Bar-le-Duc and Meet Raiders Outnumbering Them 2 to 1.

Special Cable Dispatch to the Post-Dispatch and New York World.

PARIS, June 7.—Details of the part played by the American squadron in the aerial battle that raged over Bar-le-Duc on the occasion of the visit of 14 German airmen to that town on June 1 have just reached here. They are given by Sergt. Lufbery, who represents the Philippine Islands in the corps.

Lufbery writes he is sure the German raid was due to the presence of American flyers in the vicinity of Bar-le-Duc. "They tried to get us when we were in the Belfort sector," he adds, "and now they're on our trail again."

Reconnoitering Over Verdun.

When the German machines started across the French line toward Bar-le-Duc, Sergt. Lufbery and James McConnell were making a little reconnoitering flight over the Verdun front.

Lufbery got back to camp without encountering the raiders, but McConnell met and faced the whole lot of them single-handed. He fired one belt of cartridges at them from his machine gun and turned back at least one. Adjusting his reserve ammunition, however, he dropped his belt overboard and found himself confronted by two Fokkers less than 100 yards away, without a cartridge.

Eighteen bullets pierced the sides of his Nieuport within a few inches of his head before he ducked to safety. Landing in a shell-pitted field, he smashed over the machine and had to walk home.

Meanwhile the Germans were raining bombs on Bar-le-Duc and the town and fast that Kiffin Rockwell of Atlanta, who has been mentioned for the military medal, wrote:

"I thought sure I'd be killed on the ground, and I felt pretty sick, as when I get mine I want to be in the air."

His machine was put out of commission in the fighting over Verdun the week before—at the time when Lieut. William Shaw and he were wounded—and so he could not join the others attacking the raiders.

Outnumbered Two to One.

Headed by their French Captain, Sergt. Bert Hall, Victor Chapman, Norman Prince and Elliot Cowdin darted aloft as soon as the invading squadron's approach was telephoned from the firing line. They opened fire directly over Bar-le-Duc, but the Germans outnumbered them more than 2 to 1, and both the Captain and Prince were forced downward, one with a punctured gasoline tank, the other with his ammunition box blown off by explosive bullets.

Soon after Cowdin's machine gun choked, and he too descended. Hall and Chapman kept after the Germans until, reinforced by a French squadron from Toul, they were able to force them back into their own territory.

The nine Americans and the two French officers commanding them are installed in a villa which offers himself wouldn't scorn as a temporary domicile, sleeping in real beds, shaving with hot water and eating excellent food.

Geg. Petain, in the cottage in which he has been living since the Verdun struggle began, doesn't have any of these luxuries. Twice a day or oftener they go to the aviation field near by, get into their baby Nieuports—the finest "aeroplanes of pursuit" in the French service—and slip off in a bunch toward Douaumont or Dead Man Hill.

Must Chase Germans.

Their duties are comparatively simple. They are to keep the German machines from crossing the French lines. Whenever and wherever they meet a Fokker or an Albatross they are expected to bring him down or force him to turn tail. If they can do this without sacrificing their own machine or lives so much the better, but it must be done. They are the elite of the French aviation corps, for they drive the battleplanes which convey and protect the bigger and more cumbersome craft employed for bomb dropping, regulating shell fire and photography.

Bert Hall, who in peace times halls from Eagle Pass, Tex., returned a few hours after my arrival.

"I've been chasing that German who keeps dropping bombs on us," he observed, naming a big town in the Champagne sector. "The Captain gave me leave to have a try at him. I picked him up yesterday just after one of his little bombing parties, on the way to Paris."

"He was several hundred yards higher than me, so I had to sit tight while he peppered me with a machine gun. I finally got level with him over Meaux, but, of course, as soon as I got ready to fire at him he swung off into a cloud bank and I didn't see anything more of him until I spotted him winging back over the trench line. I guess I kept him from getting to Paris, but that's not much consolation."

Six powerful little biplanes standing in a row before the hangars, surrounded by a throng of mechanicians grooming them, with a young American who has given himself to France in the fuselage of each, a sudden roar among the propellers whirled into life, a swaying of the long grass as first one, then another machine shot forward, slid smoothly off the ground and pointed its nose abruptly toward the sky, a swift grouping of the squadron 400 yards up, finally their disappearance among the clouds as they raced toward the death zone north of Verdun.

It is just a big game to them—like college football. And what college football star ever thinks of the chances of getting hurt when the play is on the other team's 20-yard line?

JABLEGRAM SAYS CHINESE ARE RALLYING TO LI-YUAN-HUNG

Prof. Jenks Declares Feng Kuo-Chang Is Gaining New President His Support.

NEW YORK, June 9.—Prof. Jeremiah Jenks, head of the Far Eastern Bureau in New York, but now in Peking, cabled the bureau yesterday:

"Veteran Field Marshal Feng Kuo-Chang, one of the famous 'Four Friends of Yuan Shih Kai' and the ablest General after Premier Tuan Chi-Jui, has telegraphed his cordial support to President Li Yuan-Hung.

"It is thought here that all the leaders, north and south, will earnestly back up the new administration and restore a united China. There is good reason for the belief that China will now be able to devote all her energies to the heavy tasks of administrative reconstruction and reform.

GOODMAN KING IS RE-ELECTED

Goodman King was re-elected president of the St. Louis Convention and Publicity Bureau at a meeting yesterday at the Planters Hotel. Fletcher R. Harris was chosen first vice president, Lyman T. Hay second vice president, J. D. Ables treasurer, and Charles F. Hatfield secretary and general manager.

New by-laws were adopted and committees appointed. The bureau urged every business house in St. Louis to send a representative to the convention of the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World to be held at Philadelphia the last week of the present month, to get the 1917 meet for St. Louis.

From every quarter of the city the Post-Dispatch is receiving assurances that the girls and boys whose hearts and energies have been enlisted in the cause of saving the babies in congested district homes are to be depended upon for hearty continuance in that self-imposed task. And from some of these children, as well as from grown people who have heretofore manifested deep sympathy with the efforts of the Post-Dispatch Pure Milk and Free Ice Fund, there are flowing subscriptions, as appears from the foregoing acknowledgments.

Sixteen children living along Hartford street, who last year gave an entertainment for the benefit of the fund that yielded $25, have progressed far toward arranging an affair for the evening of June 20, from which they are confident of realizing a far greater sum, and the nature of the entertainment affords ample warrant for prediction that it will merit the success anticipated. Earlier plans contemplated giving the entertainment on a vacant lot at Grand avenue and Hartford street, June 24, but these have been changed to the date stated, and the first part of the program will be produced in the auditorium of St. John's Presbyterian Church, 866 Arsenal street, and the carnival to follow on the church lawn.

Two One-Act Comedies. The principal feature of the entertainment will be the production of two one-act comedies, "The Prairie Princesses," and "The Fairy Minstrel of Glenmalure." These will be given inside the church, where there is an adequate stage. The lawn, for the carnival, will be decorated with Japanese lanterns, bunting and colored novelties. Scattered about the lawn will be several booths from which will be dispensed candy, ice cream, soda and novelties.

In the "Prairie Princesses," the Duchess of Diddlers dispatches four invitations, two go to two princesses and two to American girls. The Duchess is of the opinion that the Princesses will be "bored" and expresses that fact to a relative in a letter. In some way the letter and the invitation to the American girls become mixed, and they thus learn what the Duchess anticipates. They accordingly dress as Mexican princesses when they visit her. After a lot of fun, the American girls explain why they disguised themselves.

Girls and Children. "The Fairy Minstrel of Glenmalure" is the story of a giant propounding three riddles to children, which must be answered correctly if a little girl is to escape being killed by him. The fairy who accompanies the children is able to answer two of the riddles, but the third is beyond her. The giant is about to slay the little girl when her boy companion guesses the answer to the third riddle, thereby saving her life. The children who are to be in the entertainment are rehearsing regularly and are also industriously pushing the sale of tickets for the performance, being eager and determined to exceed the $25 earned last year.

Those who will appear in "The Prairie Princesses" are Louise Moskop and Elizabeth Welch as the American girls, Oliver Kortjohn as Dick Majendie, Dorothy Urban as the Duchess, Elsa Erlicher as Lady Fanny and Firard Brimmer as Lord Algernon. Those who will be in "The Fairy Minstrel of Glenmalure" are Verona Schroth as Kathleen, Richard Moder as Emma, Louise Welch as the Fairy, Marybelle Powers as Mrs. Magpie, James Scher as Mr. Magpie, Ruth Gaentner as Grauni, Celeste Powers as Mother, Gerard Brimmer as the Giant, and Pierce Powers as the Prince.

Mrs. Kortjohn is in charge of the training of the children.

Fortune-Telling Booth. The candy booth will be conducted by Ruth Gaentner, the ice cream booth by Dorothy Urban, the lemonade booth by Elsa Erlicher, and the fortune-telling booth by Elizabeth Welch.

There is a spirit of rivalry among those who are to have charge of the booths, as to who can arrange the prettiest decorations.

The names and address of the children who will be in the entertainment, all of them live on Hartford, are: Elsa Erlicher, 3730; Ruth Gaentner, 2629; Dorothy Urban, 2818; Jessie Moskop, 2644; Elizabeth Welch, 2626; Verona Schroth, 2621A; Loretta Wayne, 2626; Celeste Powers, 2622; Louise Welch, 2626; Oliver Kortjohn, 2721; Gerard Brimmer, 2623; Charles Welch, 2626; James Scher, 2620; Pierce Powers, 2622, and Dick Moder, 2621.

The management of the entertainment is in the hands of Elmer Lelenecker, 288A Connecticut street, and Walter Zingheim of 3723 Connecticut street.

Does your daughter graduate in June? Buy her a Diamond Ring, only $1 a week. Lottis Bros. & Co., 24 N. 3d St., 6th fl.

Doctor Says Nuxated Iron Will Increase Strength of Delicate People 200% in Ten Days

In many instances—Persons have suffered untold agony for years because of nervous weakness, stomach, liver or kidney disease or some other ailment when their real trouble was lack of iron in the blood—How to tell.

In a recent discourse, Dr. E. Sauer, a well-known specialist, who has studied widely both in this country and Europe, said: If you were to make an actual blood test on all people who are ill you would probably be greatly astonished at the exceedingly large number who lack iron and who are ill for no other reason than the lack of iron in the blood. Iron is supplied all their multitude of dangerous symptoms disappear. Without iron the blood at once loses the power to change food into living tissue, and therefore nothing you eat does you any good; you don't get the strength out of it. Your food merely passes through your system like corn through a mill with the rollers so wide apart that the mill can't grind. As a result of this continuous blood and nerve starvation, people become generally weakened, nervous and all run down and frequently develop all sorts of conditions. One is too thin; another is burdened with unhealthy fat; some are so weak they can hardly walk; some think they have dyspepsia, kidney or liver trouble; some can't sleep at night; others are sleepy and tired all day; some feel irritable and nervous; some are thin and bloodless, but all lack physical power and endurance. In such cases, it is worse than foolishness to take stimulating medicines or narcotic drugs, which only whip up your fading vital powers for the moment, maybe at the expense of your life later on. No matter what anyone tells you, if you are not strong and well you owe it to yourself to make the following test: See how long you can work or how far you can walk without becoming tired. Next take two five-grain tablets of ordinary nuxated iron three times per day after meals for two weeks. Then test your strength again and see for yourself how much you have gained. I have seen dozens of nervous, run-down people who were ailing all the time double and even triple their strength and endurance and entirely get rid of their symptoms for dyspepsia, liver and other troubles in from ten to fourteen days' time simply by taking iron in the proper form, and this after they had in some cases been doctoring for months without obtaining any benefit. You can talk as you please about all the wonders wrought by new remedies but when you come down to hard facts there is nothing like good old iron to put color in your cheeks and good, sound, healthy flesh on your bones. It is also a great nerve and stomach strengthener and the best blood-builder in the world. The only trouble was that the old forms of inorganic iron, like tincture of iron, iron acetate, etc., often ruined people's teeth, upset their stomachs and were not assimilated, and for these reasons they frequently did more harm than good. But with the discovery of the newer forms of organic iron all this has been overcome. Nuxated iron, for example, is pleasant to take, does not injure the teeth and is almost immediately beneficial.

NOTE—The manufacturers of Nuxated Iron have such unbounded confidence in its potency that they authorize the announcement that they will forfeit $100.00 to any charitable institution if it can not take any man or woman under sixty who lacks iron and increase their strength 200 per cent. or over in four weeks' time, provided they have no serious organic trouble. Also they will refund your money in any case in which Nuxated Iron does not at least double your strength in ten days' time. It is dispensed in this city by J. M. & D. Duph Drug Co., Wolf-Wilson Drug Co., Johnson-Enders-Pauley Drug Co. and all other druggists.—ADV.

TURK AND RUSSIAN BATTLE IN CRADLE OF CIVILIZATION

War in Vicinity of Nineveh Calls Up Atrocities Boasted of by City's King.

WASHINGTON, June 10.—The strong offensive developed recently by Russian forces against the Turks, northwest of Bagdad, has awakened interest in Mesopotamia and particularly in the ruins of the great city of Nineveh, lying just across the Tigris from Mosul and a probable battlefield during the Muscovite assault upon this Moslem key to the upper valley of the historic river. Concerning the ancient capital of Assyria and the manner in which its buried secrets have been brought to light with in very recent times, Albert T. Cary, professor of Assyriology and Babylonian literature at Yale University, has sent a communication to the National Geographic Society, part of which has been released from the society's Washington headquarters, as a war geography bulletin. Prof. Cary writes:

"One of the romances of the last 75 years has been the unearthing of the remains of forgotten empires and the decipherment of their ancient records. A little over a half-century ago what was known concerning the ancient peoples of the nearer East, besides that which is contained in the Old Testament, could be written in a very brief form. 'Israel was then regarded as one of the great nations of antiquity. Abraham belonged to the dawn of civilization. The references to other peoples in the Old Testament had little meaning, for few appreciated the fact that the history of many pre-Israelitish nations had practically faded from the knowledge of man. The pick and spade of the explorer, however, and the patient toil of the decipherer have thrown a flood of light upon the situation; ruin hills of the past have been opened up to the light of day, out of which emerge marvelous revelations in the form of written records and other remains. 'These, although written in languages and scripts the very existence of which was unknown to man for 3000 years or more, are now forced to reveal their story of religion, politics, science and life of not a few of the ancient and forgotten peoples.

Israel Was Small Power. 'These researches have resulted in astounding revelations. Israel, instead of being one of the foremost nations of antiquity, is now found to have been a small power which had thrived in the late pre-Christian centuries, and had occupied a comparatively insignificant position among the great nations of the age. Instead of the patriarch Abraham belonging to the beginning of time, it is now found that he occupied a middle chapter in the history of mankind.' Prof. Cary tells of some remarkable documents found in the ruins of Nineveh's 'congressional library,' where manuscripts were catalogued and arranged according to subject matter, much as in our libraries of today. One clay tablet discloses the fact that 'the sweetest story ever told' was told with the same naive fervor 6000 years ago as it is today. It is a lover's plaint, thus expressed: 'To Bibbe, thus says Gimil Marduk: May the gods Shamas and Marduk permit thee to live forever for my sake. I write to inquire concerning thy health. Tell me how thou art. I went to Babylon, but did not see thee. I was greatly disappointed. Send the reason for thy leaving, that I may be happy. Do come in the month of Marchesvan. Keep well always for my sake.'

Whether Bibbe received this missive from her solicitous Gimil is not known, but she should have, for there was an elaborate post system in that day, and it is known that there were regular dispatches between some of the principal cities. Among the large amount of unearthed tablets have been many shipping tags made of clay. These have upon them the name and address of the party to whom the merchandise was sent.

Atrocities of Ancient War. If all the atrocities charged made against the various belligerents during the present world war were true and were multiplied a hundred fold they would not reach the limits of cruelty attained by the famous King of Nineveh, Ashur-nasirpal III, whose own accounts of the refinement of an art of torture have been unearthed recently beneath the very plain where Turk and Muscovite are now battling for possession of the cradleland of civilization. This King wrote concerning one of his campaigns: 'To the city of Tela I approached. The city was very strong; three fortress walls surrounded it. The inhabitants trusted to their strong walls and their numerous army; they did not come down or embrace my feet. With battle and slaughter I attacked the city and captured it. Three thousand of their fighting men I slew with the sword; their spoil, their goods, their oxen and their sheep I carried away; many captives I burned alive. I captured many of their soldiers alive; I cut off the hands and feet of some; of others I cut off the noses, the ears and the fingers; I put out the eyes of many soldiers. I built up a pyramid of the living and a pyramid of heads. On high I strung up their heads on trees in the neighborhood of the city. Their young men and their maidens I burned with fire. The city I overthrew and dug it up, and burned it with fire; I annihilated it.'

A correspondent of the Geographic Society adds: 'The imagination is staggered at the very thought of that pyramid of the living, human beings piled one upon another suffocating, strangling, perishing slowly and miserably before that other pyramid of their more fortunate friends to whom death had come swiftly, and at the thought of that monster who not only did this, but gloried in it, and caused the story of his brutality to be written indelibly upon the walls of his house.'

It is going to cost you $11 to $19 more per set to obtain

The New "Handy Volume" Issue of the

Encyclopaedia Britannica

11th Edition

You can wait till the last week, the last day and the last hour, if you wish. That is what thousands of other people just like yourself are doing right now, and are going to do. And thousands of people like yourself are going to be disappointed because at the last moment they will have something else to do and will forget all about it; or they will desire a binding all the sets of which have been sold; or we may be unable to fill all the orders received on the last day (we are trying to estimate the sale against the number of sets now remaining as closely as we can).

We do not want you to be disappointed. Therefore, we state again the facts. In order to secure the new "Handy Volume" Issue of the Encyclopaedia Britannica at a very low price, so as to give our customers a really wonderful bargain, we contracted with the publishers of the Britannica for an enormous printing (probably the largest single printing order ever given in this country).

We anticipated an enormous sale; but even this huge supply is now almost exhausted. Now we cannot obtain any more at anything like present prices. All our contracts were based upon before-the-war prices and conditions. Everyone knows how prices have risen in the last eighteen months. No industry has been more affected than that of printing and binding expensive sets of books. Therefore On June 17th, this remarkable sale comes to an end. After that date for such further sets as we may be able to obtain we shall be compelled to increase the price by from $11 per set for the cheaper to $19 per set for the more expensive bindings.

Remember that when you sign the order form below and send us your dollar the sale is not closed. All this does is to secure the shipment to you of 29 volumes of the new "Handy Volume" Issue in whatever style of binding you desire. Then you have three weeks in which to examine the volumes in your own home, use them every day, discuss them with your family, learn how wonderfully valuable this great work may be to you and every member of your household, especially to your growing children. Then if for any reason whatsoever you decide you do not wish to keep the books, you may return them and we will refund your dollar and all shipping charges as well. (You take no risk. We take it all.)

Now, which is better? To wait to the last minute, or sit down now, take a dollar out of your pocket and send it with the order form below?

What Question Remains in Your Mind?

You may be one of over 200,000 people who have considered buying the new issue of the Encyclopaedia Britannica and have sent for the illustrated book describing it.

At the last moment a huge number of these people will suddenly make up their minds and send their orders. And many may be disappointed. There may be no sets left in the style of binding they desire.

Only a few days remain. Is it not better to make up your mind now?

1. You KNOW the great and everyday value of always having at your elbow a splendid work of reference that will answer almost every question that you can ask it.
2. You KNOW that the greatest work of reference published—no other work like it in all the world—is The Encyclopaedia Britannica.
3. You KNOW that the new Eleventh Edition cost more to prepare than any other work of reference ever issued in any language, and that it is the most complete and up-to-date encyclopaedia published.
4. You KNOW that in the larger form—the Cambridge University issue—it costs from $168 to $250 per set.
5. You KNOW that you can now obtain this same new Eleventh Edition in the new "Handy Volume" Issue, identically the same with

Our Absolute Guarantee

We guarantee that the "Handy Volume" Issue is authorized by the publishers of the new Encyclopaedia Britannica; that its contents are identical, page for page (including every map and illustration), with the Cambridge University issue now selling at three times the price; that it is manufactured by the same printers and binders as the more expensive book; that it is printed on the same quality of India paper from newly made plates; and that, because it is smaller, it is easier to handle than the Cambridge issue.

We guarantee complete and entire satisfaction with the contents of the Encyclopaedia Britannica and with the form of our "Handy Volume" Issue. To anyone, who for any reason is not satisfied and returns the set within three weeks, we guarantee to return all he has paid (including shipping charges).

POTTER-EDMUNDS TEAM WINS CUP IN WALKER TOURNEY

They Defeat Jess Carleton and Harold Kauffman in Four-Ball Final, 4 and 3.

Harry Potter and Sterling Edmunds won the four-ball invitation match-play golf tournament, given recently at Country Club by Walter Walker, by defeating Jesse L. Carleton and Harold Kauffman in the final round, 4 up and 3. Eight teams competed and the tournament was productive of splendid golfing in spots.

This event, the first of its kind promoted on local links in some time, was arranged by Walker as a preliminary tuning up for the State tournament at the Blue Hills Club, Kansas City, June 19 to 24, and so far only a few of the better local players have signified their intention of competing.

Many of those who played in the Walker tournament, however, were sufficiently of their game to prove potent factors in the struggle for the State title, now held by Cyrus R. More of Normandie. More will not defend his honors, as he recently all but lost a finger on his left hand in a vain attempt to "fix" an automobile.

Stickney-McKittick Lose.

In the first round of the four-ball team play at the Country Club, the results were as follows:

Harry Potter and Sterling Edmunds defeated Chris Kenney and Bert Walker.

Arthur Stickney and B. Husey defeated Andrew McCreary and Allen West.

Jesse Carleton and Harold Kauffman defeated Bill Bixby and Lionberger Davis.

Stuart Rickney and Ralph McKittick defeated Clarkson Potter and E. A. Limberg.

The second round brought out a keenly contested match between McKittick and Stickney and Potter and Edmunds, the latter winning 1 up in 18 holes.

Arthur Stickney and Husey defaulted in this round to Carleton and Kauffman.

In the final, Potter and Edmunds were a bit too much for Carleton and Kauffman, winning 4 up and 3.

The success of this event may lead to more tournaments of a similar nature to precede the State championships at Kansas City.

Harvey Named Aggie's Captain.

MANHATTAN, Kan., June 9.—E. W. Harvey, Parsons, Kan., a Junior, was elected captain of the 1917 baseball team of the Kansas State Agricultural College at a meeting of the letter men last night.

M. P. Wilder, Manhattan, a sophomore, was elected captain of next year's track team.

SPORT SALAD BY 10 Dimes

Where They Come From.

The city may furnish top-sawyers in every industrial line; The bankers, the merchants, the lawyers And men who as architects shine. It turns out the learned professors And men who control politics; But the guy who wins fame In our national game Is the fellow from out of the sticks.

The city turns out the physicians And surgeons who whittle our frames; It also turns out the musicians And youths with poetic fancies; While men born and bred in the city Are wise to all manner of tricks. When you're looking for guys With the keen batting eyes, You've got to go out in the sticks.

Now, take Walter Johnson of Kansas, Who's known as the "Fireball King," We've written our quota of stanzas In praise of his great pitching wing. This gink with the eye of the eagle, This guy with the catapult arm, Is the kind who wins fame In our national game, And he started in life on a farm.

Bert Shotton grabbed the wrong signal yesterday and fouled one off on his nose. As a result the scent of new-mown hay and the sephyras from the reduction plant will be one and the same to Bert for the next few days.

As the injury deprived Bert of the least important of his five senses it may not interfere with him taking his regular place in the lineup.

Anomalous. Musically speaking, a biff on the bugle puts one of the most important organs out of commission.

Billy Evans suspended Armando Marsans presumably for saying "Good Lord, Bill!" At least that's what Armando says he said. Maybe it sounded like something else to Bill.

Wrong Interpretation.

Bill Evans was offended.

And Marsans was suspended.

Three days for only saying "Good Lord, Bill!"

This guy he should not banish.

He speaks in broken Spanish.

And only tried to say: "I'm for you, Will!"

Saved.

With Bert Shotton out with a busted bugle and Armando Marsans suspended for using the wrong words at the wrong time, Jupiter Pluvius stepped in.

And the Cardinals were just as well pleased that the Braves' management called off yesterday's bat.

The day was cold, but while no colder than on Wednesday, the little St. Louis Cardinals were ready to accept the decision of the Boston club without a whimper. The men grabbed their heaviest clothing and tried to keep warm the best they could, hoping that the conditions for this afternoon would be such as to allow them to play.

Despite the weakness displayed with the bat, Huggins does not seem troubled with the way the team is going. Inability to hit has been the great fault with the Cards. Huggins says the pitching is all that could be asked, and just as soon as the men begin to swing the stick effectively the club will not look so bad. Yesterday's game will be part of a double header on Saturday, July 29.

Braves Look Tame.

The Braves have not looked any better than the Cards in the two games played, and if the Boston club is thought as possible champions, there is no reason to figure the Cards as being entirely out of the running.

The games between the Cardinals and the Braves have drawn poor crowds. Boston fans are very much disturbed over the way the local team has been going, for when they left Miami, Fla., early in the spring, the aggregation looked like a real championship contender.

All of the "pap" has been knocked out of the men because of the wishes of President Haughton to keep off the umpires and opposing players.

Bob Simpson, Missouri Allround Star, Will Captain '17 Track Team

COLUMBIA, Mo., June 9.—Bob Simpson, Missouri's foremost athlete, has been elected captain of the Tiger track team for next season. Simpson is generally regarded as one of the greatest track stars in America. Some of his records follow:

100-yard dash—10s.

220-yard dash—22s.

120-yard hurdles—14.55 s. (World's record.)

220-yard hurdles—2:56 (World's record.)

Broad jump—33 ft. 6 in.

High jump—5 ft. 10 in.

These marks were officially made in actual competition. Simpson says, and he may be right, that Simpson can pick up the discs at any time and throw 110 feet.

Now and then he playfully tosses the shot 90 feet or so, and the Indian coach declares that he has 40 yards in him.

"Can he run the mile?" Schulte's caustic tones assure you that the Powersboro marvel can do just about anything, in pretty good time, too.

WALKER AGAIN TO COACH CENTRAL'S FOOTBALL ELEVEN

High School Students Applaud for Five Minutes When Announcement Is Made.

At a meeting in which the members of the basketball track and baseball squads were awarded letters for service on those teams during the past semester, it was announced by the principal of Central High School that M. W. Walker would have charge of the 1915 High football squad. The announcement was greeted by the student body with applause which lasted fully five minutes. This removes all veracity from a recent announcement, which was to the effect that Walker, who has been in the chair of Central's athletics for years, would not have the position again next season. It was also stated that Walker had lost his popularity with the student body. Eleven students received letters for work on the baseball squad, seven for track and eight for basketball. Manager Lynn H. Gamble also received an emblem.

Incidentally the Republican platform will have a decidedly wet flavor. Three days on the bench will be no novelty to Armando Marsans. There is nobody who has had more experience in warming the bench than Armando.

Armando's keynote speech didn't seem to strike a responsive chord in the breast of Bill Evans.

If Marsans hadn't slid into the bag maybe Bill would have shaded for him. Among umpires there is said to be an unwritten law against sliding into first.

St. Louis Women Will Enter Central-West Net Tourney in Kansas City

KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 9.—Officials of the Kansas City Field Club announce that a formidable field of feminine tennis players have entered the annual Central-West women's tennis tourney, June 10, on the Field Club's courts. From present indications a number of out-of-town players, including the Central West champions, Miss Mary Katherine Voorhees of Evanston, Ill., and Miss Alice Fendegast and Miss Lesley La Hauge of St. Louis, will compete.

Miss Voorhees already has entered, while the St. Louis girls are expected to do so shortly. The Evanston girl now holds two championships.

One is the Central West and the other is the Missouri Valley. Evidently she will make a strong bid for the title again.

Kansas City's best racket wielders will compete with the outsiders for the championship cup. Mrs. W. W. Yager, former Missouri Valley champion and runner-up to Miss Voorhees in that tourney last year, has sent in her entry, as has Miss Marjorie Hires, former Central West title holder.

WIFE OF RICH MAN Suing Him Wants $6000 A MONTH

Mrs. Charles N. Welsh of Philadelphia Also Asks for $10,000 Counsel Fee.

MANICURIST IS NAMED

Plaintiff Declares Other Woman Traveled With Husband Bearing His Name.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

PHILADELPHIA, June 3.—Sensational revelations of the matrimonial troubles of Charles N. Welsh and his wife, Helen Gallatin Welsh, in which she charges that her millionaire husband has openly carried on a close friendship for the last four years with a former manicurist, representing her as "Mrs. Welsh" on trips he made with her through Europe, Japan, Australia and California, and spending lavish sums of money for her maintenance, are contained in a petition for alimony and counsel fee, which has been filed by Mrs. Welsh.

Acting on the statements in the petition, Judge Michael issued an order calling on Welsh, who is the son of John Lowther Welsh, former president of the Philadelphia Rapid Transit Co. and grandson of a former Minister to England, to show cause, by June 12, why he should not pay monthly alimony of $6000, and in addition, $10,000 to cover Mrs. Welsh's counsel fees.

Names Other Woman.

Mrs. Welsh in her petition says she commenced action for divorce on Oct. 1, 1915, after vainly attempting to persuade her husband to give up a woman of the name of Edna McClure, with whom, she charges, he has been living since 1912, five years after their marriage.

About the winter of 1910 Welsh began to neglect her, she stated. He was away from their $50,000 home in Chestnut Hill frequently, without any explanation.

"I suspected that he had become interested in some woman, but I was always hopeful that it would be a passing fancy," Mrs. Welsh says. "In July, 1914, Mr. Welsh, our two children and I sailed from New York for France. We were accompanied by two nurses, a maid and a valet. We landed in France and went to Paris, where Mr. Welsh had engaged a suite of rooms at the Hotel Meurice. Later Mr. Welsh engaged rooms at the Hotel Royal, in Dinard, France, and directed me to go there with the children, and said he would join me in a few days.

"In February, 1913, while we were living in Paris at the Hotel Meurice, I broke my ankle. My husband, a day or two later, informed me that he was going to London to purchase some clothing. He had his trunks packed and left me at the hotel in bed. Instead of going to London, he moved to another hotel in Paris, where he lived with Edna McClure, and did not rejoin me and the children until some weeks later."

Defended Girl Friend.

Vainly she besought her husband to give up the woman, Mrs. Welsh says. He was deaf to all her entreaties, she states, and even wanted to introduce the woman to her and the children. She says he said Edna McClure was a "fine girl" and threatened to throw her (Mrs. Welsh) and her children out of his house if she didn't stop speaking of the girl in "disrespectful terms."

Soon afterward, she states, Mr. Welsh offered to pay her $20,000 a year for her own personal expenditure, and in addition to maintain the estate at Chestnut Hill, where, he said, she could live for the rest of her life, "provided she did not make a scandal over his life with Edna McClure."

Mrs. Welsh says this was after their return from Europe, in the autumn of 1914, where her husband left her, and never again lived under the same roof. "During the winter of 1914-15 I lived with my children at my residence at Chestnut Hill, and Mr. Welsh traveled with Edna McClure from New York to Pasadena, Cal.," she stated in the petition. "He rented a house there, where he lived with her for several months as his wife, and she went about Pasadena and other places in the West as Mrs. Charles N. Welsh and was introduced as Mrs. Charles N. Welsh. "In the spring of 1915 I went with my children to stay near my mother, on Long Island, N. Y., and I expected in the fall to return to our estate at Chestnut Hill and reside there with my children; but soon after we arrived in Philadelphia, in September, 1915, Mr. Welsh sent me word that he had rented his house to Mr. Edward T. Stotesbury, and that I could not go there. "Accordingly, I took up my residence with my children at the Ritz-Carlton Hotel, engaged counsel, and, on Oct. 10, 1915, commenced this action for divorce."

The Jarr Family

Written for the Post-Dispatch
By Roy L. McCordell

Mr. Jarr Tells Mrs. Jarr That Women Have Made a Mess of Managing Homes for Some Thousands of Years.

"REALLY don't know what's come over servants these days," said Mrs. Jarr plaintively. "This steak has been cooked to a crisp and the potatoes are greasy and the coffee is flat!"

"Why don't you speak to Gertrude about it?" said Mr. Jarr. "It's a shame to spoil good victuals this way."

"You should tell Gertrude she must go better," added Mr. Jarr.

"Tell her!" echoed Mrs. Jarr. "Why, if you dare say a word to servants they pack-up and leave! I wish I could do that when I was criticised, and yet I do what I have to do and do it right."

"I guess that's so," said Mr. Jarr. "Of course it's so!" remarked Mrs. Jarr. "You have to be so respectful to them, too, while they are not one bit respectful to you."

"Maybe it's the fault of the mistress," said Mr. Jarr. "You women have had the management of domestic affairs since home and home service was first established, and a pretty mess you have made of it. After some thousands of years the servant problem is worse than ever. In household affairs you women make it a question of caste, and those who serve are made to feel a certain sense of social inferiority; hence the self-respecting kind of people shun domestic service."

"What do you want me to do?" asked Mrs. Jarr. "Sit down at the piano and play duets with Gertrude, or have her friends visit us and give them the best room?"

"You are going from one extreme to the other," replied Mr. Jarr. "Domestic work could be made a matter of purely wage relation, with no element of social inferiority in it, I think."

"Oh, so you think!" said Mrs. Jarr. "Well, how would you do it?"

"Just as they do it at the apartment hotels," replied Mr. Jarr. "The cook and chambermaid and laundress have certain defined hours of work, and the relations are simply those that exist between employer and employee in the stores and workshops. I know men who employ 100 women who haven't half the trouble of women who employ three."

"Do I employ three?" asked Mrs. Jarr. "But it's getting so now that they expect you to have three. Servants want servants to wait on them. As for regular hours, YOU keep regular hours and then maybe I can keep a good girl! But with your coming home to dinner one night at 8 o'clock and another night at 9 o'clock and another night not at all, and us keeping dinner waiting, how do you expect a good girl, who wants her evenings to herself, to stand for it? They won't do it, and I don't blame them!"

"Well, if you don't blame them, why are you kicking about it?" asked Mr. Jarr.

"I'm not saying a word," said Mrs. Jarr. "I do the best I can, and the girl I have—Gertrude is a good girl, but she has no system and never seems to get through with her work."

"All right," said Mr. Jarr. "If she suits you, she suits me."

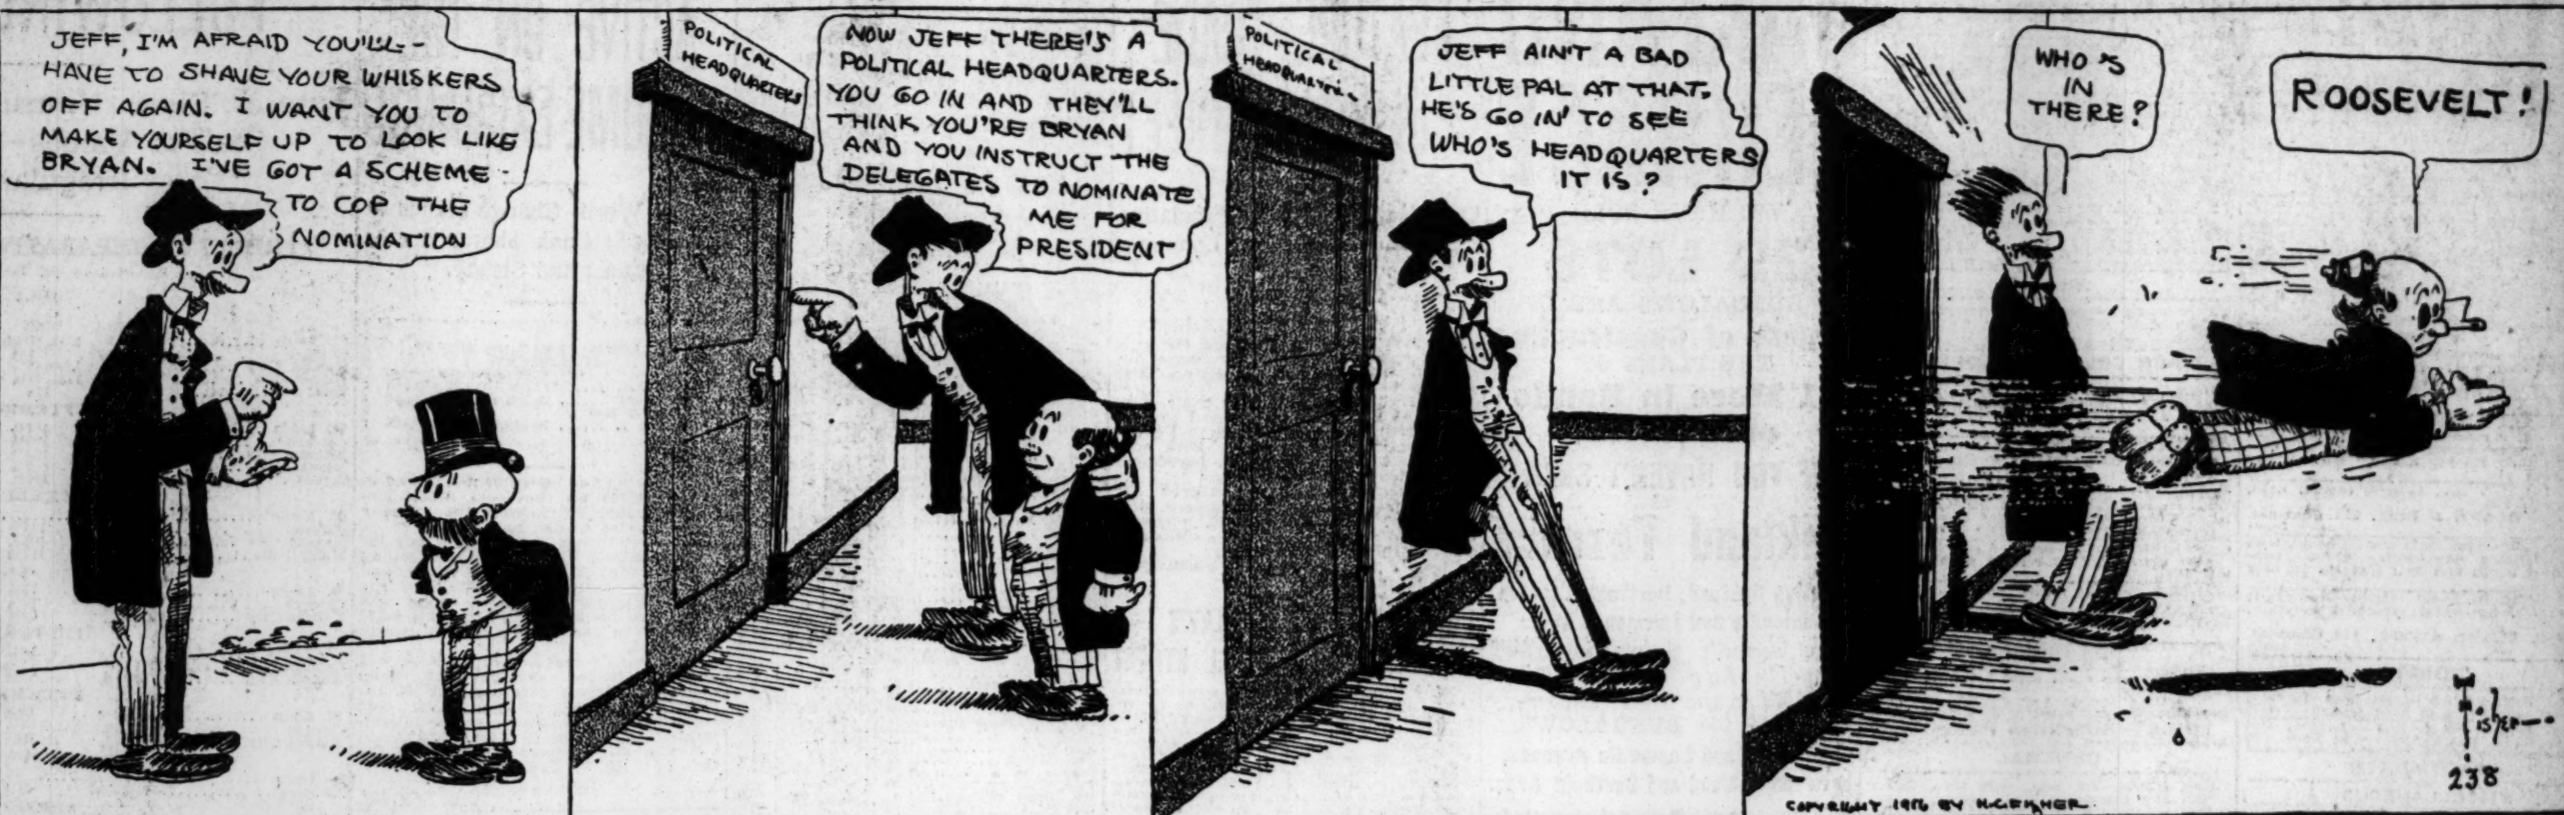

"Well, please don't be finding fault then," said Mrs. Jarr. "We should be thankful we have such a good girl as our Gertrude. Mrs. Rangle can't get one for love or money!"

So Mr. Jarr ate the fried steak and drank the poor coffee, feeling that he was lucky in having a servant in the house at all.

Facts Not Worth Knowing

CLOSE observation by the Department of Agriculture shows that the toadstool is absolutely neutral until somebody eats it.

The average life of a dress suit is 987 hires.

Every quartet would be a success if only the other three singers had voices.

In ratio to their size, a humming bird can fly 967,542,867,000 times farther than a rhinoceros.

Nobody has ever figured a possible method for a woman to eat soup through a veil.

Tests by efficiency experts show conclusively that round trolley car wheels are much superior to octagon shaped ones.

Whirlwind, the Drummer.

THEY were talking about a promising young man who had failed to make good as a traveling salesman. The first man said to the other man: "It was queer about that boy. He seemed to be a regular whirlwind. His first trip was a rattling success, but all he brought back from his second trip was a bunch of fresh excuses."

"What was it you called him—a whirlwind?"

"Yes."

"I see. All 'whirl' at the beginning and all 'wind' at the finish."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

An Affirmative Vote.

ONE morning not long ago Vice President Marshall called for a vote on an amendment that was of such a routine nature that none of the Senators were interested in it enough to bother themselves about voting for it.

"All in favor, please vote 'aye,'" said the Vice President, but there was no response.

"All opposed, please vote 'nay,'" he then directed, but no one said a word.

"Very well," he ruled quickly. "The vote is a tie. The Vice President votes aye. The ayes have it."

No Use.

GEORGIE, dear, said his mother, "you have been Mr. Coyne's office boy for nearly a year now, and he hasn't raised your salary yet. Can't you do something to attract his attention so he'll know you're alive?"

"I've tried that, mother," answered George. "I tipped the inkstand over this morning and spilled ink all over his white vest, and it didn't seem to help a bit."

No Friend of His.

MINISTER (calling): What a nice little boy! Won't you come and shake hands with me?

Little Boy: Naw.

Minister: What's the matter? Don't you like me?

Little Boy: Naw! I had to get my face and hands washed just because you come.

When It Comes to Praying, Swearing or Making Love, No Man Since Solomon Seems to Have Had the Slightest Fertility of Imagination.

Rebuked.

THE persevering landscape painter knew that he had an observer looking over his shoulder at the easel. He knew from the rustle of skirts that the observer was a woman; yet he worked steadily on. Presently the observer spoke.

"A charming landscape," she said. "Ah, you flatter me," said the artist modestly. "Compared with the original landscape it is very poor stuff."

"I meant the original," said the observer.

That's Different.

I WISH you'd quit dunning me for that suit. Do you object to giving me time?"

"No, I don't, but I do object to giving you the suit."

Prepared.

HOW do your employees stand on the question of preparedness?

"They're for it, all right. They sleep all day at the office so they can dance all night."

Satan Got Behind Her.

MRS. KILGORE was the pretty young wife of the elderly village pastor. One day she went into the city with a friend and among other things bought a new frock.

"Another frock, my dear?" said her husband. "Did you need another?"

"Yes," said the wife hesitatingly. "I do need it; and besides, it was so pretty that the devil tempted me."

"But you should have said, 'Get thee behind me, Satan.' Have you forgotten that?"

"Oh, no; but that was what made the trouble, hubby dear. I said 'Get thee behind me, Satan,' and he did, but he whispered over my shoulder, 'It just fits you beautifully in the back!' And I just had to take it then."

IVORY Soap is in general use at the leading colleges and athletic clubs. The members find that it does what most soaps cannot do—that is, gives a refreshing, pleasant bath without smart or burn when the skin is chafed from perspiration. Just one more proof that Ivory Soap is mild, pure and of the highest grade.
